Arab And Israeli Forces Clash Again

By ROY ESSOYAN
BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP) — Egyptian and Israeli forces battled in the air and on the ground along the Suez Canal today in what appeared to be the most serious clash between them since the six-day Arab-Israeli war.

Radio Cairo said the Egyptian government demanded an urgent session of the U.N. Security Council in New York to deal with what it called "the new aggression."

The Egyptian broadcast said Israeli air force jets attacked Egyptian positions in Port Said and Port Fuad at the Mediterranean entrance to the Suez Canal and that Egyptian planes engaged them in air combat. It claimed Israeli forces were trying to move up the eastern bank of the canal in a drive to seize Port Fuad.

Israel claimed that Israeli jets were strafing Egyptian artillery which had opened fire on the Israeli occupation forces from the west bank of the canal. It said the fighting was along several miles of the canal's banks. Israeli tanks on the east bank were hit by the Egyptian artillery fire, a Tel Aviv communique said.

It was the second straight weekend in which fighting had broken out in violation of the Arab-Israeli cease-fire which went into effect June 10, halting Israel's sweep into the territories of three Arab nations: Egypt, Jordan and Syria.

An Egyptian army communique said six Israeli Mirage jets, French-built planes had penetrated Egyptian air space over Port Said and Port Fuad at 2 p. m. (8 a. m., EDT), the Cairo broadcast said.

It added that Egyptian anti-aircraft guns opened up, and Egyptian planes took to the air. It did not say how many.

The broadcast said an air and artillery battle on the canal was in progress.

Earlier, Egypt claimed its forces were repelling an Israeli attempt to advance on Port Fuad. It said the clash came at Ras El'ish on the east bank of the canal. This was the scene of three clashes last weekend.

An Israeli communique said Egyptian artillery fired into its positions, killing two Israeli soldiers and wounding 13.

The Tel Aviv communique said the fighting had spread to E. Quantara, 12 miles south of Ras El'ish.

Israel captured nearly all of Egypt east of the canal in the June 5-10 Arab-Israeli war but Port Fuad, a seacoast city at the canal's north entrance still is in Egyptian hands.

An Egyptian communique said the Israelis attempted at 2:30 a. m. EDT to rush tanks and armored cars through the narrow roads parallel to the canal heading for Port Fuad. It said Egyptian shelling destroyed one tank and three armored cars.

An Egyptian radio station — the "Voice of the Arabs" — said the fighting still was raging.

Port Fuad is divided by the canal, with most of its mud huts lying on the west bank. Reliable sources indicated the Egyptians have maintained some positions on the east bank to protect the city.

Egyptian reports say Israeli forces stationed at the east bank town of El Qantara have tried three times in less than 10 days to seize Port Fuad.

Israeli soldiers at Qantara have said Egyptian commandos try almost nightly to sneak across the canal to sabotage Israeli positions.

After the earlier fighting, three Egyptian officers were promoted for "heroic action."

Two Egyptian newspapers published accounts of last weekend's Israeli-Egyptian clash at Ras El'ish.

Egypt claimed destruction of six Israeli tanks and nine armored cars in that fight. The newspapers Al Gomhouria and Al Akhbar said the result proved that Israel's talk of military superiority is merely a myth when the Israelis fight without the aid of "American treason and British tricks."

As in today's fighting, Egypt claimed Israeli forces were trying to advance to Port Fuad. In Tel Aviv, Israeli Premier David Ben-Gurion, a political foe of Eshkol. When Ben-Gurion broke away from Eshkol's Mapai party, Dayan went with him.

Eshkol also made a peace gesture toward the Vatican, which wants Jerusalem to be made an international city. Israel captured Jerusalem's Old City from Jordan in the war and has said it will keep it.

He said Friday that "Dayan's entry into the Cabinet improved morale, but the credit for the victory goes to the chief of staff, Maj. Gen. Yitzhak Rabin, and to the government. The self-praise of one man (Dayan) is not honorable. If it continues, then we will have to react."

Dayan is a protégé of former Premier David Ben-Gurion, a political foe of Eshkol. When Ben-Gurion broke away from Eshkol's Mapai party, Dayan went with him.

gion and capture Gov. C.O. Ojukwu.

The federal government said the rebel forces had suffered heavy casualties. The Biafrans claimed to have killed at least six Nigerian officers and to have destroyed a company of soldiers.

Earlier, Radio Biafra said Biafran troops had repulsed a "full frontal assault" by Nigerian troops led by white mercenaries. It gave no details on the alleged mercenaries.

Lagos Radio said rebel troops opened fire first early Thursday and charged that Ojukwu had "unleashed terrorist activities in Lagos and other parts of Nigeria" after declaring its independence from the federal government May 30.

The Biafrans claimed from their capital of Enugu, 300 miles east of Lagos, that their forces had captured the North Nige-

It's All Over, Congo Says Of Fighting

BRUSSELS, Belgium (AP) — from the Congolese National Airlines.

There was no word, though, on landing of two of the planes.

A Rhodesian government spokesman said a plane which landed at Kariba had been impounded and the European white and African wounded aboard were receiving medical attention.

A member of the Rhodesian air force staff said 12 injured men from the Congo were flown from Kariba to Salisbury, the capital, for treatment at the air force hospital. He would not say how seriously hurt the men were.

Rhodesia is run by a white minority government which broke away from Britain Nov. 11, 1965. Some white mercenary leaders who have fought in the Congo in the past have come from there.

Reports said the plane was in distress and running out of gas when it landed at Kariba, 300 miles northwest of Salisbury. The Rhodesian spokesman said, "On humanitarian grounds and in terms of recognized distress practice, flare paths were laid out and the plane landed safely at Kariba."

Idzumbur said the Congolese government had asked Rhodesia to arrest the mercenaries and return the stolen plane.

Detailing the alleged plot against Mobutu, he specifically named a number of Belgian and French nationals as agents of Tshombe who had made trips from Portuguese Angola into the Congo either for sabotage or to work with Tshombe sympathizers.

The Security Council adjourned until Monday while the nonpermanent members drafted a resolution appealing to all countries to bar recruitment of mercenaries for the Congo.

Mobutu sent a message asking President Johnson for military aid.

Earlier, a planeload of wounded whites and Africans flew out of the fighting areas in the Congo, and the Congolese government claimed the strife had stemmed from an attempted coup plotted from Spain by ex-premier Moise Tshombe.

The arrival of the plane at Kariba, Rhodesia, was the first visible evidence from the fighting, on which previous reports had come primarily from foreign capitals.

Congolese Ambassador Theodore Idzumbur told the U.N. Security Council that Tshombe and aides in Spain were trying to carry out a plot of sabotage, provocation of mutinies in the Congolese army and elimination of President Joseph D. Mobutu.

Tshombe was kidnapped and flown to Algeria June 30 and authorities are considering a request for his extradition to the Congo, which sentenced him to death for treason while he was living in exile in Spain.

Diplomats at the United Nations predicted if Tshombe is returned to the Congo and executed, the former Belgian colony's internal troubles would mushroom.

Idzumbur told the council that white mercenaries had fled from fighting in Kisanangani, formerly Stanleyville, in their two planes and another stolen

Assembly Adjourns For Weekend

Ohio's Tax Picture More Muddled With 4 Additional Bills Offered

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Ohio legislators are up to their knees in tax bills with no one sure which ones will hit the voter's pocketbook.

Four more administration bills were introduced Friday before the House and Senate adjourned for the weekend. They joined a myriad of other proposals which made the tax picture more clouded than ever.

Latest measures would permit counties to levy an income tax up to one per cent, 1 per cent tax on hotel and motel rooms, a 1 per cent tax on real estate transfers and a $5 fee on each motor vehicle registered in the county.

Introduced earlier was a bill authorizing counties to place a tax up to 5 per cent on utility bills. In each case, the permissive taxes could be levied by county commissioners without a vote of the people.

A Senate subcommittee is now considering the administration's omnibus bill to expand the base of the state sales tax and take 1 per cent of the gross receipts of retailers, among other things. It is designed to raise $252 million more in the 1967-69 biennium for education.

To further cloud the issue, five House subcommittees are working on legislation to revise local tax structures and they are talking in terms of reducing or eliminating real estate and personal property taxes.

Presumably this subcommittee, headed by Rep. Albert H. Sealy Jr. R-84 Dayton will come up with a "catch all" bill which would contain all or some of the permissive tax proposals.

The administration is firmly committed only to the $252 million education measure but is known to favor a new taxation concept requiring local governments to take a greater share of responsibility. This was evident in the appropriations bill which requires counties to match $35 million in state funds if they want to raise certain welfare benefits.

In other developments as the legislature ended its 26th work week:

—Sen. Ralph S. Regula R-29 Navarre, Stark introduced a so-called "escheat" bill which would permit the state to use unclaimed bank deposits and funds reserved by certain businesses for payment of unclaimed premiums as seed money for industrial loans.

—The House voted 85-0 to establish psychiatric hospitals for disturbed children in each of the 10 state hospital districts.

—Senators completed passage of a House bill requiring Board of Regents' approval for creation of community college districts and increasing their boards of trustees from seven to nine members.

—Rep. Ralph Fisher R-24 Wayne won House passage of a bill authorizing the agricultural director to conduct proganization of a community college district without their consent.

Intent of the bill, which now goes to the House, is to avoid the possibility that local efforts in setting up a district will be wasted if the community college plan is disapproved by the regents.

Exactly this situation arose in Columbiana County earlier when the regents rejected community college plans drawn by the Columbiana County Community College district trustees.

Regents instead directed Kent nesses for payment of unclaimed premiums as seed money for industrial loans.

State Orders Boost

Assessment Boost Seen For Hancock Properties

Hancock County Assessor Anthony Pirraglia, was confronted Friday with an appraisal report from the West Virginia tax commissioner's office in Charleston which will require him to increase county assessments by $8,525,634 over last year.

The state report based on a "spot survey" was aimed at personal property such as automobiles, household furnishings and industrial equipment.

Pirraglia is required by law to assess real estate and personal property at a minimum of 50 per cent of the actual value. He has been using the 50 per cent guideline for the past two years.

He has challenged the state procedure in the matter. This year's total appraisal figure, exclusive of public utility properties, has been set at $378,533.

033, which means Pirraglia will have to set assessments at $189,266,517.

There are four classifications of property: I — farms, farm equipment and personal intangible property; II — owner occupied houses; III — rented properties, businesses and industries outside municipalities, and, IV — the same properties within municipalities.

The appraisals will be set at: I — state appraisal $21,987,532, assessment $10,993,766; II — state appraisal $100,563,516, assessment $50,281,758; III — state appraisal $21,869,805, assessment $10,943,902; IV — state appraisal — $234,112,810, assessment $117,056,091.

Pirraglia noted the state tax commissioner's office had de-

U.S. Marines Cry Victory In DMZ Duel

SAIGON (AP) — Infantry battles and small arms duels along the demilitarized zone over the last week have killed 836 Communist soldiers, the U.S. Command said today.

U.S. Marines, badly battered by enemy artillery and ground assault forces early in the week, claimed overwhelming victory today as they announced that 506 Communists were killed in the past two days, mostly by air and artillery strikes. Marine losses for this period were listed as 17 dead and 46 wounded.

For the whole week, the Marines lost 134 dead, 631 wounded and 5 missing.

Many of the reports of enemy dead were based on sightings from the air.

In ground action Friday a Marine unit that had lost 12 dead and 30 wounded to North Vietnamese artillery fire Thursday more than evened the score when it caught 200 North Vietnamese in the open northeast of Con Thien.

After the Leathernecks boxed the enemy troops in a narrow draw, blistering air strikes and artillery were called in. A Marine spokesman said 150 enemy bodies were counted after the smoke cleared. No Marines were reported killed in the clash.

Out in the South China Sea hope of recovering alive Maj. Gen. William J. Crumm and five others lost after two B52s collided grew dimmer. Search vessels picked up pieces of debris from the two huge Stratoforts but reported no sign of the missing crewmen. Thirteen crewmen were scooped out of the sea soon after the collision Friday.

Crumm, a veteran of 26 years of Air Force flying, was scheduled to report to the Pentagon in August as director of Aerospace Programs, U.S. Air Force Headquarters.

The continuing deadly fighting in South Vietnam's northernmost province continued today with new artillery clashes and a pitched battle in which South Vietnamese infantrymen, supported by air and artillery reported they killed another 84 Red troops.

The fighting along the demilitarized zone was reported to U.S. Defense Secretary Robert S. McNamara on the second day of his Vietnamese inspection tour. He is weighing Gen. William C. Westmoreland's urgent request for troop reinforcements. The heavy North Vietnamese infiltration through the zone is a big factor in Westmoreland's requests. He is believed to have asked for at least another 100,000 troops to bolster the 464,000 now committed to the war.

Before leaving South Vietnam, McNamara will tour the embattled 1st Corps area comprising the five northernmost provinces most-threatened by increasing Communist pressure.

A military spokesman said the casualty figures given for the past week's battles in the demilitarized zone were by actual body count. However, only about one-third were confirmed by ground sweeps and the remainder by observation from light spotter planes and helicopters. The spokesman said that the latest casualty figures had been held up while they were personally reviewed by the Marine commander, Lt. Gen. Robert E. Cushman.

At Uhrichsville Overpass

Two In Auto Are Killed As Freight Rips Bridge

UHRICHVILLE, Ohio (AP) — A tall load on a Pennsylvania Railroad flatcar tore apart an ancient overpass on U. S. 36 here Friday night while an automobile was on it, and both occupants of the car were killed.

Police identified the victims as Willard L. Evans, 53, and his wife, Susan, 52, of New Philadelphia. Their bodies were recovered from beneath tons of twisted steel.

Railroad officials said the westbound freight train was roaring beneath the overpass shortly after 9 p. m. when a huge boiler on a flatcar failed to clear and brought down a steel bridge support, collapsing the bridge. The 12-foot high boiler apparently was off center and had clipped the side of a building one block away from the bridge.

The 10-ton boiler, one of two being shipped to Columbus, bounced across two gondola cars loaded with pipe and smashed the end of another car before dropping off the train.

The automobile on the humped bridge fell through and was wedged by the bridge floor, a supporting stone wall and a metal boxcar of the freight train. Not until a railroad crane lifted some of the debris and workmen cut through with torches, were the bodies extricated.

Boyd Asks Eligible List For County Home's Posts

LISBON — James W. Boyd of East Liverpool, president of the Columbiana County Board of Commissioners, made formal request Friday to the Department of State Personnel for an eligible list for the positions of County Home superintendent and matron.

The letter was mailed to Columbus just a few hours after receipt of a letter advising the commissioners that Mr. and Mrs. William T. Hiscow of Lisbon and Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Mattevi of Lisbon RD 4 passed the civil service examination given June 30 at Columbus.

No one else took the recent examination, but Acting Supt. Robert Boyce and his wife, Gladys, matron, made the only passing grade when three couples took the first examination here April 18.

The state certified the Boyces' names, but Boyd and Commissioner Charles J. Gause asked for another examination on grounds the law requires an eligible list of at least three.

Boyd was appointed acting superintendent in October 1965, following the discharge of Russell V. Phillis.

The Boyces' aggregate score in the April examination was 88.71.

In the June 30 exam, the Hiscows scored 84.02 and the Mattevis 77.95.

Robert S. Knapp, test coordinator for the department, told the commissioners by letter yesterday the eligible list will include results of the April 18 examination.

The examinations were different in that the farming section was removed from the June 30 exam for superintendent. Also changed was one phrase in the qualifications for superintendent.

In April, the pre-exam "flier" read "five years experience in business or institutional management, which must include farming experience." In June the line read "five years creased its appraisal on Class II property, but has made the big increase in Class IV property, which includes autos, household items, personal property and industrial equipment. He said he did not get a breakdown on the classifications.

The assessment is Class IV will amount to $9,819,941. However, the appraisal of Class II properties was lowered by the state. The assessment last year was $51,833,150, and the county needs only $50,281,758 to meet the state's requirements. Pirraglia pointed out.

He said he will insist the state provide him with a clarification of its new figures.

He noted that staff members of Cole, Laver and Trumble, Co., appraisers from Dayton, Ohio, are in the county checking industries and updating appraisal figures. They visit industries every three years. They are expected to continue the survey until after the first of August.

Appraisal figures also may be revised after the appraisal firm completes its findings, Pirraglia declared.

The assessment last year for Class I, exclusive of public utilities, was $10,744,283 and for Class III, also exclusive of public utilities, was $10,927,300.

Parsons Gets Probation

Walter (Brent) Parsons, 19, of 471 Mulberry St., currently in the Ohio State Reformatory for receiving stolen property, was granted probation Friday by Judge Joel H. Sharp in Common Pleas Court at Lisbon.

Parsons and Joe Murray, 20, of rear 454 Mulberry St., pleaded guilty in January to a charge of receiving property stolen Nov. 23 from Cataldo's TV store, Main St., Wellsville. The state subsequently dropped a burglary charge against Murray.

Both youths were denied probation and sentenced April 27 to 1 to 7 years in the Reformatory. They had testified in February during the trial of Mrs. Louise Melvin, Murray's mother, also charged with receiving stolen property. The jury acquitted her.

Parsons' counsel, William Telzow of Wellsville, asked that the Parsons youth be placed on probation. Counsel cited a new section of the code which provides for a "shock sentence"—the idea being that a few weeks behind bars will be enough to make a prisoner go straight.

A condition of probation is that Parsons make restitution to Cataldo's, the amount to be determined by Richard Rose, adult probation officer.

County Receives $4,761 In Costs, Fines In June

LISBON — The Columbiana County Treasurer received $4,761 in June from fines and costs in the three county courts at Lisbon, Salem and East Palestine.

Clerk of Courts Carl L. Stacey said the county share was $2,947 from fines and $1,814 from court costs in civil and criminal cases.

The state received $1,822, representing 45 per cent of fines in State Highway Patrol cases, and an additional $150 from fines in other cases.

The sheriff, constables and city police received $426 for fees.

Stacey said 246 criminal cases and 82 civil cases were filed last month in the three courts.

Warning Issued In Chester About Sales To Minors

Chester Mayor Burton Ward has reminded businessmen of West Virginia laws concerning the sale of cigarettes and tobacco to minors.

Ward said he has received a memo from Chester P. Tinsley, director of the West Virginia Cigarette Tax Division, citing the penalties for infractions of the law.

He pointed out decals warning against sales to minors must be attached to all cigarette vending machines.

Police officers, Ward added, must arrest anyone caught smoking who is under 21 years old.

It is also unlawful to smoke in a school building or on school grounds while classes are in session, he noted.

Auto Is Damaged In Freak Mishap

A 1966 compact sedan owned by Hugh and Elsie Graham of Industry Rd 1 was damaged in a freak accident Friday at 3:15 p.m. on Midland Ave., Midland.

Mrs. Graham had just parked in front of a dress shop and was walking toward the 7th St. intersection when a late model sedan operated by Aaron Green of People's Market snagged the left front fender of her car.

Green was attempting to park. When he backed his car to right it in the parking space, he shoved the compact onto the sidewalk. When he pulled ahead, he dragged it back onto the street.

Apparently unaware that the right rear bumper of his auto was attached under the fender of the compact, Green then started pulling away. Mrs. Graham's auto was finally freed as it rammed into the rear end of another parked auto as Green pulled out to seek a larger space farther down the street.

Neither Green's auto nor the third car was damaged.

Steubenville Plants Lay Off 800 Workers

WHEELING (AP) — Wheeling Steel has laid off about 40 per cent of its 2,000 employees at two Steubenville works, President Donald C. Duvall confirmed Friday.

Duvall said the 800 employees should return to work soon after steel orders increase.

"Operations have been reduced in line with the order book and we had, of course, some inventory problems," Duvall said. He termed the reduction in orders a "temporary up-and-down."

Canadian Sniper's Plea To Be Heard On July 14

VANCOUVER, B.C. (AP) — A gaunt, 35-year-old Canadian Air Force veteran stood meek and silent in Magistrate Court, charged with the murder of a young couple and the wounding of two others during a wild shooting spree.

Arthur John Towell said only that he would like time to get a lawyer before entering a plea on two counts of first degree murder and two of attempted murder.

Magistrate James Bartman Friday ordered Towell held without bail and said the plea would be heard July 14.

Police said the shooting with a high-powered rifle, broke out near the University of British Columbia about 9 p.m. Thursday.

The quiet evening was shattered by more than a dozen shots from the two-story West 11th Avenue house where Towell, a bachelor, lived with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Seymour Towell.

Neighbors ducked for cover in their homes as bullets shattered their windows. Others dived behind parked automobiles while more bullets howled wildly as they ricocheted off empty vehicles.

Some 20 minutes later, when Towell walked out of his house with his hands in the air, a young couple lay dead in the back yard of their home next to the Towell residence and two women were seriously wounded.

Police said the 5-foot, 10-inch, 140-pound Towell collected guns and made his own ammunition as a hobby. They said they found 13 guns, several hundred rounds of homemade ammunition, army ammunition pouches,

Driver Injured Only Slightly As Guardrail Rips His Auto

A Columbiana man escaped with comparatively minor injuries when his new convertible was impaled on a guardrail at 1:50 a.m. today along Route 7, four-tenths of a mile south of Rogers.

The Highway Patrol at Lisbon said Dennis Drexler, 23, was northbound when his 1967 car went off the right side of the road. It crossed back over the highway and rammed the guardrail and one of the steel panels penetrated the car from the right to the left through the rear seat.

The convertible came to a rest in a small ravine. Drexler was treated at Salem City Hospital for a laceration of the scalp and possible neck and head injuries.

Officers said Drexler was wearing a seat belt and his car had the new safety lock which kept the door closed.

Cars operated by Kenneth Melvin Dozier, 30, of Oakmont and Barbara Merical, 35, of Longview Heights figured in a collision Friday at 6:20 p.m. at the intersection of the Oakmont Rd. and County Rd. 428.

Dozier attempted to turn west and pulled into the path of the eastbound Merical car, officers said. Dozier was cited for failure to yield the right-of-way at a through highway.

Moderate damage resulted to both vehicles.

A car operated by Judith Ann Davis, 33, of Edgemont Pl., RD 3, was bumped by a farm tractor operated by Ezra Lewis, 69, of RD 3 Friday at 6:20 p.m. on the Vredy Orchard Rd. about 100 feet east of Route 170.

The woman was following the tractor when Lewis stopped to shift gears. He was pulling a hay trailer and the vehicle drifted backwards into the front of the car.

rian town of Okpo, five miles above their border.

The federal announcement claimed capture of the towns of Obudu, in the Ogoja area near the Cameroon border, and Obolo, near Nsukka, location of the eastern region's one university.

Lt. Col. Yakubu Gowon, head of Nigeria's military regime, ordered the invasion of the 30,000-square-mile eastern region, whose 14 million people seceded after months of discord marked by bloodshed in coup and riot.

Gowon called the secession an act of rebellion and imposed economic sanctions in an effort to force the region to rejoin the central government. The conflict has cut sharply into Nigerian exports of oil from developing eastern fields.

American officials here said all Americans in the Nsukka area and other areas north of Enugu have been evacuated, either out of the territory claimed by Biafra or to Enugu.

About 1,000 American aid and Peace Corps workers, missionaries and businessmen were in the East.

Vandalism Hits Local Boat Club

Dishes, silverware, canned goods, chairs and tables were thrown into the Ohio River early Friday evening in an apparent vandalism of a boat club on the River Rd.

Police said Dorman Treadway of 347 Grant St. reported the incident about 6:50 p. m. to Patrolman Charles Coen.

Mrs. Treadway said someone pried a lock from a metal cabinet used to store dishes, silverware, paper plates, cups and canned goods, and threw the contents into the river.

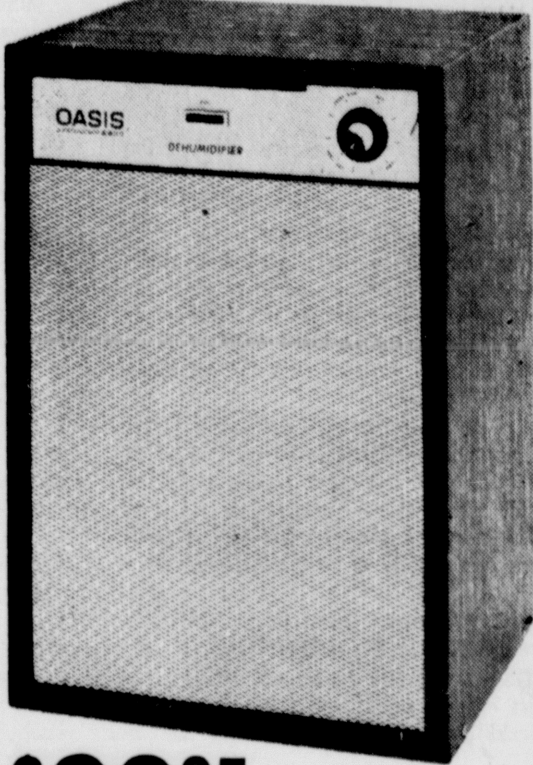

A boat owned by Ronald Fetty of 2122 Lisbon St., she said, had been ransacked and the contents strewn on the floor.

Another boat owned by William Johnson of 704 Oakland Ave. also was ransacked and a gas tank removed. It was recovered on shore. The only thing reported missing from his boat were some bottles of beer.

Mrs. Treadway told Coen chairs, tables and other equipment from a nearby shelter also were thrown into the river. Johnson said when he went to the docks he saw two boys between 9 and 11 trying to extinguish a fire they apparently had built. The two ran away as soon as they spied him. He said both were chubby, had light hair and were wearing short pants.

A Dependable Newspaper Serving the Tri-State District

Saving Ear And Image

It is the mark of an intelligent man or woman that their thinking does not lend itself to generalities, even in the case of motorcyclists or those who ride motorbikes.

There are hundreds, perhaps thousands, of riders of motorized two-wheeled vehicles across the tri-state district who are courteous, careful, calm and dignified while out on the streets and highways.

There can be a valid argument against the theory that anyone who operates a cycle is a non-conformist, an insurance risk and unworthy of equal rights on the road.

However, even the most open-minded, objective and unbiased person on earth ponders the sanity of anyone who operates a motorbike or motorcycle without the required muffler equipment, offending the sensitive ears of those along our streets.

There is no need for such deafening roars. There should be no tolerance of such violation of the city's peace and quiet, especially in the residential areas where conversation, sleep, the enjoyment of a pleasant evening outdoors are interrupted nightly by thoughtless exhibitionists.

The city code spells it out in its anti-noise ordinance, expressly prohibiting:

"Discharging into the open air the exhaust of any steam engine, stationary internal combustion engine, motor vehicle or motor boat engine except through a muffler or other device which will effectively prevent loud or explosive noises therefrom."

Motorcyclists of the world, motorbike lovers everywhere, please protect your image; keep your wheels and give us back the sound of the mosquito on the wing, the tinkle of the ice cube, squeak of the swing, the gentle buzz of grandfather's snore.

Please?

Sacrifice In Viet

The Vietnam war is — or should be — with each of us constantly, its terrible cost in dead, wounded, time, taxes, seemingly wasted national effort.

It becomes especially close to home when one of our district young men is claimed in the fighting, such as Marine Pfc. Melvin Newlin, 18-year-old Wellsville youth killed this week.

No amount of sympathy can ease the grief of his family and friends, and no amount of tribute can equal his sacrifice.

At the same time, Pfc. Newlin died in the honor of serving his country, giving his life for those ideals here and across the world for which our forefathers created this nation on July 4, 1776—just 191 years from the date a sniper's bullet claimed the Wellsville youth.

Violence Is Back In Style

Again the wall is being raised:

"The United Nations has failed because it can't settle the Israeli-Arab dispute."

The wailers never tire of this chant. But it is tiresome. It fails to put the blame for failure where it belongs.

It isn't the United Nations that is failing but the governments that created it after World War II.

They were sick of military violence in 1945, so they agreed to handcuff one another with pious resolutions against war and aggression.

That happened in 1945—a long time ago.

Today, war again is commonplace. The United States has committed troops and treasure to fight two major wars in Asia, first in Korea, now in Vietnam.

Britain, liquidating its empire, has fought a series of rear-guard actions.

China, a charter member of the United Nations no longer exists as a national entity, due to military violence in a civil war.

The Soviet Union regards military violence as a first requisite of its national policy. It will supply the tools of death to any nation inclined to use them to topple Russia's enemies, which include every nation that does not lick a Russian boot.

And in the specific cause currently under discussion, Israel successfully has gone to war against its sworn enemies to save itself from the total destruction they were hoping to inflict on it with the all-out help of Russia.

Don't blame the United Nations for failure to enforce those pious resolutions about peace adopted 22 years ago.

Blame the powers, great and small, for turning again to the violence they were sick of in 1945.

War is back in good standing as an instrument of national policy. Without war, Israel could not have survived.

The United States believes in war as an instrument of policy and has ever-mounting casualty lists from Vietnam to show for its belief.

The Soviet Union stands ready to back up any would-be belligerent promising to fight an actual or potential enemy of Russia. Membership in the Nuclear Destruction Society is the most sought-after international distinction.

It isn't the United Nations that failed. It is the creators of the United Nations. Military violence is back in style.

There also has been criticism of U.S. officials for sending the ship so close to a war zone. Inquiry disclosed a Pentagon order for the ship to move but a reported delay in communications kept the message from reaching the ship before the attack.

An Israeli naval reservist, in an Associated Press dispatch, tells a different story.

The seaman, a member of one of the torpedo boat crews, said he saw Israeli planes attack the unidentified ship after flying over it for a while. He reported the ship was flying no flag and had no men on its decks or bridge.

Attempts were made by radio and heliograph to make contact and establish identity but to no avail; and the American flag was not raised until after torpedoes had found their mark, he related.

The real story of the matter could be cleared up in a truthful statement from the Pentagon. But it might show there was provocation for the attack.

The credibility gap is looking more and more like a credibility chasm.

TRUMAN TWILL

Purely Personal

I wonder if "hippies," who emphasize the importance of "doing your own thing," realize that this individuality is nothing new. There's that passage in Hamlet, for example: "To thine own self be true, and it must follow, as the night the day, thou canst not then be false to any man."

This is a dismal confession, but I was glad when a cornered raccoon drew blood when assailed by our "rottenwollie," who has been winning all matches with groundhogs and raccoons too handily for her own good.

All anyone needs to know to understand why trouble erupts so often is the connection between power and arrogance. When power gets out of balance, it leads to arrogance — and arrogance leads to trouble.

I wonder when strolling before sunset how many people miss the delight of watching shadows lengthen and colors soften at the end of a summer day. It's all free.

It seems strange to me that estimates of our total manpower commitment in Southeast Asia never include thousands of Navy and Air Force people also entangled in this nation's bid for a Pyrrhic victory there.

It seems strange that newspapers always identify airplanes involved in smashups but are reluctant to publish brand names of autos that end up prematurely as junk.

There was a time in my younger days when girls wore sweaters that came down lower on their thighs than the miniskirts their granddaughters wear now.

I have never said anything about high school football fields where muscular young men happen to get together in the summertime to go through exercises, calculated to build strength and agility. Me a pigskin stoolie? Never!

I have fond thoughts of a waitress years ago who never asked me to order lunch — just brought me what she thought I would like and no questions asked.

Like most office workers, I do not wear out clothing. It goes out of style. I estimate it will be five more years before I can conscientiously quit wearing trousers with old-fashioned pleats.

There comes a time each summer when legislators should go home and get reacquainted with their families and constituents. The deadline is the first week in July. Beyond that, lawmakers are working on borrowed tolerance.

I may be lagging behind facts in this matter, but is it possible no burlesque queen has pre-empted the name "Gaza Strip"?

The meanest job I ever had was berry-picking, because after the first 10,000 berries you had seen them all and on top of that I was never able to make out in competition with ambidextrous geniuses who could go both ways at the same time.

The World We Live In

DAVID LAWRENCE

U.N. Scuttled

The Soviet Union was reported in the headlines generally as having been "defeated" in the United Nations when its resolution blaming the Israelis as aggressors in the Middle East war was rejected by the General Assembly.

But it was really the U.N., itself, which suffered a severe defeat in the eyes of the world.

The international organization of which so much has been expected failed to face up to the real issue in the dispute.

First, it was essential that a verdict on the statement of the facts be submitted. Second, competent legal authorities should have been asked to state obligations of each side under international law.

The world will not move toward more effective procedures to achieve peace until fact-finding in a disinterested way is accomplished. Principles then can be applied which have universal support.

To try to settle a dispute between rivals otherwise means only that their respective allies will line up also on opposite sides and, in the end, a political verdict will be rendered.

IT TAKES a two-thirds vote of the U.N. General Assembly to enact a resolution binding on the parties to a controversy. None of the resolutions on the Middle East war obtained a two-thirds vote.

Many member states realized this would, happen and cast votes for or against one side or the other, knowing beforehand that eventually no resolution would be put into effect.

The Israeli-Arab quarrel could have been submitted to a fact-finding commission or a court of law in the first place to make an authoritative exposition of what had transpired.

The threat to close the Gulf of Aqaba as well as the Suez Canal and the movement of Egyptian troops toward the Israeli border were relevant factors prior to the firing of the first shots June 5.

Unless disputes of this kind are carefully analyzed and the truth revealed to the whole world, the United Nations itself cannot make much progress in bringing about peace or preventing war.

It is a matter of regret that the United Nations has not conducted its activities in a way that could win widespread support. The spectacle of a variety of resolutions being introduced by partisan groups is not creditable and not calculated to enhance the prestige of the United Nations.

Nor is the behavior of the Soviet government since the "cease-fire" likely to be regarded throughout the world as helping the cause of peace.

The Soviets permitted their president, Nikolai Podgorny, to visit the Arab states and promise more military aid. His mission could incite further hostilities.

The Soviet Union is portrayed as intent on assisting the Arab countries to reopen the war rather than on finding a formula to encourage them to live in peace with adjacent peoples.

IT IS important for nonbelligerent countries to produce an atmosphere of reconciliation and peace. President de Gaulle of France, for instance, has not contributed anything to the process of making peace in the Middle East. On the contrary, he has helped to spread the impression that France is a partisan of the Arab states and intends to remain so.

When heads of governments ignore the need for bringing contending countries together and, instead, contribute to a continuance of bitter feeling, there can be little hope that the United Nations will take constructive steps.

The United Nations is only as strong as its most powerful members. As long as the political influence exerted by the large countries on the smaller states is centered on building up factionalism and partisanship, the United Nations can hardly become the instrument of world peace it was designed to be by the founders.

While criticism is being directed at the U.N. because the organization has not been effective in the Mideast dispute, the real responsibility rests with the major powers.

A phenomenal change could come if the men in the Kremlin took to heart the earnest words spoken to the Soviet premier by President Johnson at the two conferences held in Glassboro, New Jersey — to forego emotional differences and make a sincere effort to establish peace in the world by a process of reason.

Egypt's Surplus Food Hoax

GENEVA, SWITZERLAND: — International "spooks" no longer sit at the outdoor tables of the Cafe Casanova on the Quai. They are gone with the whirlwinds of old wars. Direct contacts now are the order of the day. Thus I attempted to reach the United Arab Republic's delegation to the International Labor Organization for comment on the UAR's positive theft of almost $24 million in foodstuffs from the U.S.

Victor Riesel

The food, donated by America to relieve a supposed Egyptian famine, was to go to the famished and poverty-stricken people of the UAR. The U.S. sent it several years back. Virtually none of it was distributed to allegedly stricken areas. Most of it was sold by Premier Nasser's military junta. No one knows to this moment, least of all the American State Dept. and the responsible AID mission, what actually occurred except that we did deliver 136,000 metric tons of corn worth $23.7 million at least.

Since this foodstuff was to go to the urban working people and the supposedly starving small farmers, I traced down a chap I have covered in Cairo and at other international conferences.

HE IS AHMED FAHEEM, president of the UAR Federation of Labour, now the Egyptian workers' delegate to the ILO 51st general session here. He would have nothing to do with Americans. During his stay here he had developed a multiple political sclerosis. His friend and ally, Anwar Salama, who had come here at UAR Minister of Labor, had been dumped by the pro-Soviet Cairo government and had been replaced in the cabinet back home by a hand-picked, trusted Soviet loyalist.

So the documents in my possession and those in the files of the U.S. General Accounting Office must speak for themselves.

And they tell this story of outright UAR embezzlement of American foodstuffs which could have gone to starving lands across the world.

For some six years now, efforts have been made to learn what happened to the $23.7 million cargo. The story begins in late 1961. At that time Nasser's government informed the U.S. State Dept. that Cairo expected a grim crop failure. "Insect infestation," plant disease and floods would virtually wipe out the harvest. Tens of thousands would die of starvation. In addition to the hundreds of millions of dollars worth of aid, Cairo said it would need 200,000 metric tons of corn. This was quickly agreed to by the State Dept. and the AID headquarters in Washington.

THE STATE DEPT. later said: "Our willingness to consider a Title Two program (surplus food donations under Public Law 480—VR) had an important psychological effect . . . Because of the UAR leadership role in the Near East, its geo-political importance, the part it played in assuring peace and stability in the Near East — a determination had been made at the highest levels of our government in 1961-VR to carry out an action program designed to build a broad and useful relationship . . ."

The foodstuff was delivered at huge cost to the U.S. It was put in Egyptian warehouses in 17 distribution centers. Only four of those centers handed out even a comparatively few bushels. Some of it was kept on ships for a long time because those vessels had previously put in at Israeli ports.

Practically nothing went to the poor. There was no crop failure. In fact, there was a bumper crop the same year and in 1962 and '63. The Nasser generals and influential civilian UAR officials simply sold our corn commercially. At least 80,000 tons were traced in such commercial operations.

THE FAILURE of Nasser's agencies to feed his own poor with food we donated to him became so blatant that the U.S. finally investigated the hoax. Four years later there was a final report. It said in part:

"The (AID) Mission did not verify the UAR representations that the 1961 corn crop had suffered serious losses. We found no evidence that the mission verified the existence of the estimated losses in the 1961 corn crop by determining exactly where the insect infestation and floods had occurred or by physical inspections of the damaged areas or interviews with farmers suffering crop losses . . ."

"We found no indications that the mission ascertained what evidence the UAR's representations of serious corn crop losses were based upon."

Furthermore, there was evidence that the U.S. officials in Cairo then learned of Nasser's failure to hand out the relief corn. But the U.S. agents did not inform Washington which could have cut off some of the shipments en route and saved over $10 million.

All this is known to such men as the Seafarers' Paul Hall, the National Maritime Union chief Joe Curran and Teddy Gleason, the longshoremen's leader. That is why, among other reasons, they distrust any word out of Cairo. That is why they still plan to hit cargoes bound for the UAR unless it is proven that the foodstuffs, medicines and other relief will go to the poor, the hungry and the wounded.

They will not permit another colossal international shakedown.

Letter To Editor

EDITOR OF THE REVIEW:

On behalf of the Salineville Little League and parents, I wish to express our deep gratitude and thanks to Vern Gossman for the wonderful time he made for our children.

The wiener roast and fireworks have given the children something to remember. That someone cared enough to do this for them, even though his own boy isn't in the Little League, is commendable.

Thank you again, Vern, for showing us this July 4th the "spirit of '76."

Also, we would like to thank DeWayne Felton and others who gave their time and help.

For The Men

Huskies And Hemlines

By JEAN SPRAIN WILSON
AP Fashion Editor

NEW YORK (AP) — He-men are no less so in green shoes and cinnamon shorts, or for that matter in orange coats with silken honey-brown slacks.

Some would rather fight than switch to these from their basic shades of drab but the men's and boy's wear industry is encouraged by the fantastic success the toiletries industry has had in convincing men that smelling pretty does not reflect on their masculinity.

It made a heroic effort to win the conservatives over the Edwardian elegance Friday at a fashion show arranged as a part of the New York Couture Group's semiannual fall style previews. Huskies hopped onto the runway while a men's fashion magazine editor described silhouette, hemlines, color and pattern coordination, just as it is done at women's fashion shows.

However, the commentator was careful to use a lot of words like "beefy" and "burly" to emphasize that these garments were not sissy stuff.

Here is what he says clothes-conscious men can look forward to this year:

SILHOUETTE — Narrower waistlines in coats and suits make shoulders seem broader. Trousers are spare and still not as tight as they are worn on Carnaby Street in London.

STYLE — Edwardian double-breasted suits, with four and six buttons, and double-breasted vests as well as in. Two-button, single-breasted suits are okay, but three-button styles are out. Deep side vents in coats are losing ground to box pleats and deep center vents.

HEMLINES — The fitted Edwardian coat is a little longer, but the preferred coat length is several inches above the knee.

COLOR — In shirts a soft orange shade called cinnamon, a lime green, and workshirt blue are the things to wear, with patterned ties and silk handkerchiefs of the same color, but another pattern. In suits new colors are green — brighter than olive hue — and various shades of golden brown from sweet honey to whiskey sour. Green is great for shoes.

PATTERNS — "Glen plaids are about as bold as a man ought to go," decreed the commentator. Stripes range from chalk types to conservative pin stripes.

SPORTSWEAR — Any color goes. Sweaters are high-necked and in bulky patterns. Mixing textures is the trick to being sharp, for example, suede, corduroy and wool knit.

PRACTICALITIES — There are now permanently creased corduroys, crushable hats, and reversible sweaters.

NEW THINGS — The sport suit was designed for the business man with a sports car, the jacket length is too short to sit on.

Hancock Begins Newsletter For Older Residents

About 1,260 senior citizens in Hancock County will be receiving a newsletter next week, Malcolm Graham, chairman of the Hancock County Committee on Aging, announced today.

The newsletters are being circulated by the committee to inform retired residents of such matters as public housing, the new drug prescription program, and a proposed nursing home project under study. Names of others to be placed on the mailing list will be sought, he said.

In Hancock County, he noted, there are about 2,700 who are over 65 years of age and they represent 7 per cent of the county's population. "We have only about half of these people on our mailing list," he added.

Camping Can Be Enjoyable, But Inexpensive
When Articles From The Home Are Utilized

By Harry L. Stewart
Outdoor Editor

Camping on a "shoestring" can be fun.

Outdoor recreation is growing by leaps and bounds each year, but strangely there are many people who never go camping simply because they do not have the funds to purchase all the latest equipment.

Today it seems to be the vogue to pull your "livingroom" behind you when you decide to visit the woodlands, fields, hills and dells. This is convenient, but not absolutely necessary. The Stewart family spent last weekend at Beaver Creek State Park with just a minimum amount of equipment and found it enjoyable.

By spending just a small amount of money and utilizing articles found in the home, almost anyone can spend an enjoyable weekend camping.

Campsites are within easy driving distance of almost any community in the state. In the immediate area there is Raccoon Creek State Park in Pennsylvania, Guilford Lake State Park near Lisbon, Beaver Creek State Park near Calcutta and the Kennedy Park operated by West Virginia at the site of former Dam 8.

There is an advantage to not starting out "big" in the camping game. Many find they do not enjoy it after purchasing a nice trailer or a large elaborate tent and all the related gear. The equipment then is sold, usually at a loss.

By camping on a "shoestring," with just a small expenditure, one can discover the same thing.

IF CAMPING IS appealing, then equipment can be added as each season passes. With a little advance planning, the old equipment can be utilized year after year.

Protection from the elements is necessary. If you own a station wagon, you have a place to sleep. If not, it will be necessary to purchase a small tent.

Aside from a roof over your head, about the only other articles that can be considered necessary are a small cooking stove and a cooler. If the weatherman would cooperate to the fullest extent at all times, even the stove would not be needed. Cooking can be done over an open fire.

But when it is raining, it is nice to know the flame from the stove will be there to warm a can of beans or brew a pot of coffee.

A small, one burner gasoline model can be purchased for less than $10. With it, and a little ingenuity, an entire meal can be prepared. Of course a full course dinner with all the trimmings is out of the question, but sandwiches, soups, fried eggs, potatoes and so forth is the usual camping fare.

Later, if a larger stove is acquired, the small one can be used for heating leftovers or making a pot of coffee in the evening.

Paper plates really cut down on the chore of dishwashing. Of course silverware is needed, but this can come from the kitchen along with one or two pots and pans and a skillet. These items will just about take care of the cooking.

Cooking units that "nest" together can be purchased but are not essential unless you plan on several trips. These do save space when packing however.

By keeping the cooking simple, the items needed can be kept at a minimum. Many campers prepare a one-dish meal, such as stew and dumplings. One pot does it.

OLD BLANKETS from home will suffice for sleeping. Later, if you keep at it, sleeping bags are a very good investment. Given proper care they will last for years and are very convenient, even in the more dignified camping units.

Many persons with trailer campers use them because they are easier to care for than blankets.

Have a card table or folding picnic table in the basement? Take it along. Some camp sites have tables, others do not. It also is necessary to have something in which to carry water. For this job either purchase plastic water carriers, which are very reasonable, or use a large kettle. Another good thing is a small plastic dishpan. Foil can be put over the top to keep out insects and dirt.

Even if paper plates are used, some dishes will have to be washed. Again a small plastic dishpan comes in handy.

There are many coolers on the market. One type is made of a light, foam material. They are excellent for overnight camping trips.

On extended trips a sturdier model will probably stand the abuse better. For seating take along some folding chairs or stools or just pick out a comfortable log.

Don't forget a flashlight or a lantern. They are mighty handy for getting around at night.

One thing that should be carried on any outdoor excursion is a first aid kit. Make up your own from the medicine cabinet.

A SMALL TENT, even a pup tent, can be purchased very reasonably. Compared to trailers ranging in price from $400 to more than $2,500, a tent is a real bargain.

They range from $50 to $300, depending on the style and size. A tent is one item that always can be used. If the "bug" bites and more elaborate equipment is acquired, the tent can serve as extra space for sleeping guests who might visit you.

There are hundreds of items which make life more comfortable in the outdoors, but the basic necessities can be found in the homes.

For the first time out pick a site close to home, such as the primitive area at Beaver Creek State Park.

The park is listed for handling 20 units, but there have been as many as 72 over a holiday.

There is no charge for camping at Beaver Creek and the site is very neat. There are outside privies for sanitary accommodations. Toilet facilities vary with the grade of the park.

Joanne Stewart and daughter, Marla, find the campfire cozy and convenient.

Water must be carried from home or hauled from the pump in the picnic area.

Elmer Hiles and the park rangers are helpful and always ready to offer a suggestion to make the stay a little more pleasant. A new feature at the park this year is the campfire chat held once each week, usually on Saturday nights.

Most parks operated by the states are usually kept very orderly and clean. Garbage cans are provided for wastes.

AFTER SETTING up camp, take time to relax and get your bearings. Evaluate what was brought that was not needed and what items that should have been packed.

Visit the neighboring campers. They are always willing to give a helping hand and help correct any errors.

Build a campfire in the evening. It is cozy and the warmth of the flames, even in the summer, chases away the chill of the night air.

Explore the park and all its trails. Observe the wild flowers and birds. Take along a camera and record the entire venture, including setting up camp.

There is an untold wealth of material available on camping and the items that can be useful. Read some of it and take advantage of the tips.

So pack up the old jalopy and sleep under the stars tonight. If it rains, what better way of learning that an old rain coat also would be handy.

Above all, use good judgment in all outdoor activities. Make it enjoyable, but make it safe.

Young campers always enjoy refreshing dip.

It may not be like the kitchen at home, but a one - burner stove proves sufficient.

Mark Oakes and Jeff Stewart set up their own tent under a small clump of trees.

The Lighter Side

By ROBERT POPP

THE TELEPHONE tinkled musically in the governor's mansion in Sacramento and His Excellency Ronald Reagan looked at the instrument with a stare of studied surprise.

"Is that my cue?" he whispered to a man who hovered just outside the glare of the lights that blazed on the big mahogany desk from overhead and both sides.

The telephone chimed again, tinkling notes that made up the first two bars of the theme music from Reagan's most popular film: "Single-Handed against the Sioux in a Zoo in Sault Ste. Marie."

"This is for real, Ronald," the secretary said. "Action!"

The governor lifted the receiver, holding it well below his chin so as not to obscure his rugged masculine jaw and swung his big swivel chair 90 degrees to present his best profile.

Yes?" he asked with a rising inflection through a smile. "Against the Sioux in a Zoo in Sault Ste. Marie." That seemed to dim the glare of the lights.

The caller didn't waste any time on preliminaries.

"This is Feeny at the Associated Press bureau downtown," a nasal voice announced. "A woman named Hilda Zilch of Yreka has just started circulation of a petition to demand an election for your recall. She says you are incompetent and she has made a lot of other charges that you have meddled with education, veterans' affairs, unemployment compensation and the grunion run at Seal Beach. Do you have any comment?"

REAGAN QUICKLY picked up a well-thumbed script from his desk. Across the top in red letters it carried the red legend: "Standard Reply for Questions On Disgruntled Voters' Complaints. (Read with feeling and compassion and close with the force of an old-time Fourth of July orator.)"

Reagan recited with practiced ease, enunciating pear-shaped tones into the telephone transmitter.

"The right to disagree is fundamental to our great American governmental process. I do not deign to question the motives of those who disagree with me and the policies of my administration. But I trust in time they will find their charges baseless."

Then he gestured in the style of William Jennings Bryan and slammed his fist on the desk for emphasis as he read the closing lines: "So long as we have a system of representative government we will have the pull and haul of contrary beliefs, publicly expressed and publicly aired in the forum of opinion. I respect that right; I encourage dissent and I assert that all the actions of my administration are open to public scrutiny. Now get rid of the caller before he asks you a question not covered by the script."

"What's that about getting rid of the caller?" Feeny asked quizzically.

Reagan's jaw dropped and he smote his forehead soundlessly with the palm of his hand, realizing he had read part of the stage directions appended to the script. But he recovered quickly, proving he could ad lib when the script went sour.

"NOTHING, NOTHING," he said to Feeny. "I was telling my secretary to get rid of a bunch of radicals who want to set up one-way traffic on the Golden Gate Bridge, ban bears from the High Sierras on the grounds they're emblematic of a hostile foreign power and persuade John Steinbeck not to write any more image-injuring novels about that low-life gang that lives in the dock area of Monterey."

"Well, all right," Feeny said. "But it seems to be that's the same answer I get when I asked for comment on Mayor Sam Yorty's last pronouncement and the time that the hippies in San Francisco marched to protest the sales tax on LSD."

Perspiration streaked Reagan's make up as he quailed Feeny and assured him that the statement was brand new, off the cuff and—what's more—seven minutes ahead of the opposition. Swiping a big Turkish towel across his face to remove the pancake makeup, he shouted: "That's all for today." Then he flipped a switch that doused the vivid lights. Wrapping himself in a dressing gown, he told his secretary: "That script has to be reworked. It just won't play. Maybe we could call in S. J. Perelman for some additional dialogue."

"Not at his prices!" the secretary replied. "When he writes a one line gag for a Chinese fortune cookie, he demands a $5,000 fee. And he insists on all sorts of residuals. Why not get Everett Mencken, the assistant publicity man in the State Department of Fisheries? He wrote all of Pat Brown's stuff."

"Never!" Reagan said. "He's a left-winger. He believes in those radical ideas like unemployment compensation, Social Security and Medicare. He's a veritable Red. If I can't get Perelman, I'll turn it over to the stable of writers at Metro. They're safe. They wrote all those Andy Hardy scripts and most of Shirley Temple's screenplays. Anyone who can write things like 'Captain January' and 'Little Miss Marker' has to be all right politically."

WITH A BRISK wave of the hand, a bit of business from his title role in the epic, "Tycoons on Pontoons in the Monsoons," he dismissed the secretary to the nether regions of the mansion.

The telephone rang again as the secretary closed the door silently. Reagan hurriedly doused the makeup, flicked on the blinding array of lights and positioned himself hurriedly at the desk before lifting the receiver.

"Governor, our country needs you for president," a voice on the other end said after a few brisk preliminaries.

"We believe with your image of the stalwart, fearless American male you could win the election hands down. We need a capable administrator able to deal fearlessly with perplexing problems."

"He must be the clean, athletic type with an attractive family, a solid background of conservatism and a good record in an executive post high in the government. He must present a convincing public image on television and in press and radio interviews. He must be financially solvent, above reproach and the suspicion of any under-the-table dealings."

"We have just had a meeting of the 15 candidates and we believe you are the man for the job. We are willing to withdraw if you just say the word. Tell us that you will run and we will withdraw to a man, leaving you a clear field."

"My goodness," Reagan replied, nonplussed by the steady stream of heady praise. He patted a stray lock of hair into place, squared his shoulders under the dressing gown and smiled coyly as he phrased his question.

"THIS MUST BE George pulling my leg—how are you Sen. Murphy, you old ham?" "This is not George Murphy and it is not George Romney," the disembodied voice replied. "They were not asked about your candidacy."

"We know everyone here in the South will support you. We need you to clean up the government corruption, push on with the war effort—maybe even get rid of the B-Girls in the bars and tackle the black market."

"Well, I knew things were bad in Washington, but I did not know it had reached that stage," Reagan interjected. "But here in Sacramento, we have been preoccupied . . ."

"Washington, Sacramento, who gives a hoot," the caller replied. "This is bigger than both of them!"

"I think you are pulling my leg," Reagan said. "The connection is a little fuzzy, but you sound a little like Warner Oland in one of those old 'Charlie Chan' movies. Come on now, who are you? If this is Mel Blanc and one of his thousand voices, I've been taken!"

"Sir, you are making levity with a very serious situation," the caller replied. "We want you for president; we want you to undertake all those tasks I mentioned and many more besides. After seeing your last 50 movies, we are convinced you are the man for the job. Even dubbed in French, you come across like a rugged hero who will brook no foolishness, a man of action, a man who will move decisively in emergencies."

"This is Premier Nguyen Cao Ky. We want you for president of the Republic of South Vietnam!"

Area Service Men In Viet Nam

By LIDA SMITH

A city serviceman stationed at "the world's largest heliport" at Camp Radcliff, An Khe, Vietnam, is among vital men in helicopter maintenance at the base.

Pfc. Jerry L. Stovall, 20, son of Mrs. Olive Williams of 999 Monaca St., is in charge of the distribution of helicopter parts at the camp. He has been in Vietnam since Feb. 13, and was involved in a Viet Cong attack on the base in April.

He wrote to his mother, "Last night, after I finished a letter to you, I went straight to bed. About 1 a.m. today we were attacked by the Viet Cong. They shot a bunch of mortar rounds in the base camp. We all loaded onto trucks and went out to the 'greenline'—the line that surrounds An Khe—then the infantry moved out hunting the Viet Cong and we had to guard this place."

"This morning about 6 we came back in and later had to return to the 'line.' I just got back about an hour ago. I'll try to describe my first time under fire."

"WE HAD A BUNCH of flares all over the camp. Our helicopters were above the enemy giving them all they had, and some rounds landed about 500 yards from us. Altogether there were over 128 rounds hit in here about 300 yards from the green line. Also named landing zone 'Charlie.' Twelve men were killed plus about eight Viet Cong."

Pfc. Jerry Stovall takes a break.

The account of the attack also appeared in "Cavalair"—a newspaper published for the men. The newspaper mentioned an interesting point about "special delivery" mortar rounds:

"Near one of the cranes the company commander found a tail section from one of the mortars. Stamped on one of the fins was '478.' At first he thought the mortar round had been sent 'special delivery' into the area where the huge aircraft area parked for maintenance. On second thought, he realized the numbers were probably only part of the manufacturer's production code."

He said if the number on the fin happened to be the same as the Crane Company it would appear to have been earmarked for their area.

"A search of the Camp Radcliff area the following day uncovered locations of three enemy mortars believed used in the attack on the camp. There were apparently two firing positions, both about 150 meters north of a tower and spaced some 300 meters apart."

THE COMPANY later received recognition from their commander for their accurate and rapid defense in the attack, Stovall said.

Stovall and some of the other men occasionally travel to QuiNhon, a base about 30 or 40 miles south of Radcliff to visit other area men.

The servicemen seem to agree that the time goes more quickly if they don't try to keep track of the days they have left to serve in the Vietnam countryside.

Even in the dust, heat and grime of the everyday life, the men have to keep their uniforms neat just as if they were back in the States.

"Today we had an inspection. We have a new company commander who's trying to show how tough he can be. I got some new fatigues and we didn't do bad either!"

Stovall reports that he and his buddies go swimming on their days off, and even manage a few games of softball.

"Tomorrow we're supposed to have a ball game with 'C' company, that's if they show up. We were supposed to play the 27th Maintenance, but they cancelled it." He seemed to imply the delay had something to do with a war going on . . . a war the men would rather ignore during their "free" time.

Stovall, who spends some of his off-duty hours writing poetry about the war, has been in the Army since September 1966, and received his training at Ft. Benning, Ga. He was graduated from East Liverpool High School in 1966.

Stamps In The News

Ice hockey and the Blue Danube Waltz may have very little in common but both are heralded on stamps being issued by Austria. One stamp, a 3 schilling, depicts a goalie in action as it honors the 1967 Ice Hockey World Championships in Vienna. The other, a 3 schilling value, shows a ballerina in dancing pose as it marks the 100th anniversary of the beautiful Blue Danube Waltz.

Other stamps of interest scheduled for issuance this year by Austria pay tribute to 100 years of university studies of forestry in Austria, centenary of the Vienna Skating Club, 250th anniversary of the Academy of Fine Arts, and a sports set featuring various track and field events.

THE 1967 Harris' Collector's Guide Catalog is now off the press. This edition lists all U.S. varieties except the great rarities. As an additional feature, plate blocks and first-day covers are included. Useful facts and information on stamp collection are also added.

The large 64-page catalog with nearly 800 illustrations has proved useful to beginners and advanced collectors alike. Copies may be obtained free, postage paid, by writing to the publisher, H. E. Harris & Co., Dept. SGA, Boston, Mass. 02117.

TO COMMEMORATE the territory's first internal telephone system and an external link with the outside world, the Cayman Islands issued two new stamps. Both have the same design but are in different denominations — 4 pence and 9 pence.

The illustrations show a telephone at the top left and a map of the Caymans in the lower right connected by telephone wires.

WORLD ALMANAC FACTS

SAUDI ARABIA is a vast area about three times the size of Texas, but with an estimated population of only eight million. The country is mainly a desert, but has huge oil deposits that produce about 7 per cent of the world's yearly output.

Inspiration For Today

By REV. Allen E. Rose
Saltineville Methodist

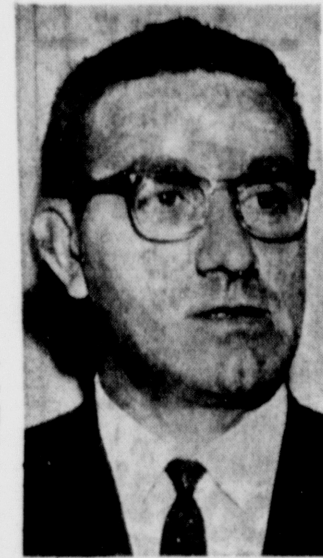

God loves the sunrise and the sunset. He loves the beauty and glory of that which came from the tips of his creation fingers, to such a degree, that he sustains a perennial sunrise and sunset upon the earth at all times.

There is never a moment but that the sun is both rising and setting along some longitudinal line of the earth's surface.

When the sunrise and sunsets sprang forth from creation to become the morning and the evening of the first day in the world's history, a spiritual sign and symbol was hung in the heaven to forever speak a spiritual message to the souls of men.

The Psalmist David caught the spiritual significance of this message coming from God in the heavens when he said: "The heavens declare the glory of God; and the firmament showeth his handiwork. Day unto day uttereth speech, and night unto night showeth knowledge. There is no speech nor language where their voice is not heard."

TO THE LIFE that may be blighted with sin or oppressed with failures and disappointments, the sunrise is a symbol of the Sun of Righteousness rising over the earth with healing in his wings. Without the sunrise hope would be forever crucified on a cross of eternal night.

The wondrous glory of God's song may be heard while the shades of night are gently brushed from hill and dale. Voices break forth in a song of praise in forest, meadow and plain. The flowers give forth unspeakable splendor to the atmosphere of the morning song.

You And The Law

Ned was digging a flower bed in his newly-acquired property when sparks flew as his shovel chopped into a power line. The line was connected to some outdoor lights erected by the former owner of the property.

"I'll sue the son of a gun!" Ned howled as the emergency squadman dressed Ned's burned hands.

"That's not my fault," the former owner said when Ned called. "You should have been careful digging around those lights."

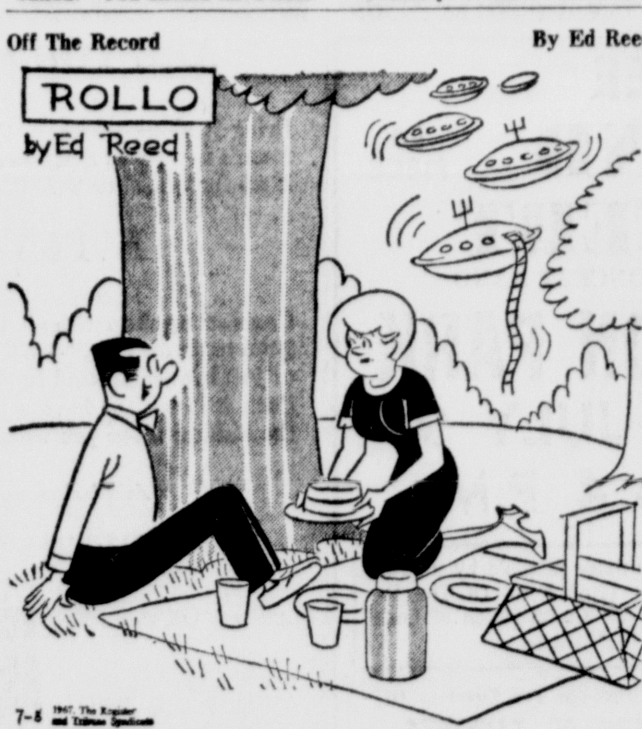

"Oh, yeah? For your information, mister, that type of cable is supposed to be buried six inches below the frost line. It should have been obvious that someone would dig in that area. You should have warned me about the cable being so close to the top of the ground," Ned replied.

WILL NED recover any damages? Possibly. A seller has some

Tri-State Tour Tips

Just east of Dayton in the area where the Wright Brothers made many test flights after their first success at Kitty Hawk now is located the Air Force Museum, largest military aviation museum in the world.

In the exhibit building and the surrounding aircraft parking area is unfolded the complete history of aviation, including space and rocketry, in a manner certain to interest both adults and children.

The Museum is on Wright-Patterson Air Force Base, and is off Ohio 444 at the west end of Main St. in Fairborn. Hours are 9 to 4 weekdays, 1 to 5 Saturday, Sunday and holidays. Admission is free.

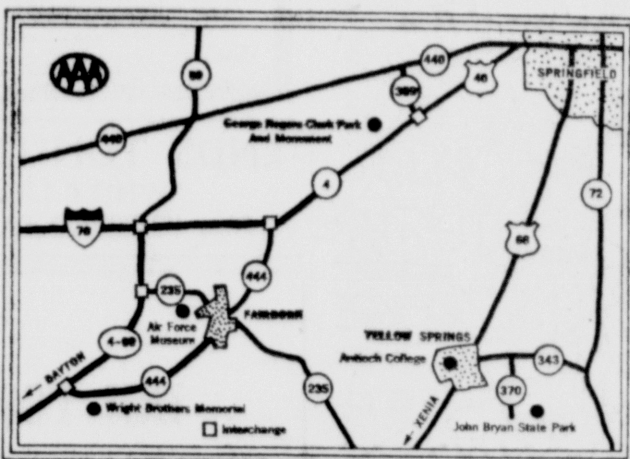

Among the more than 30 aircraft on display is one of the Wright's own, a Spad VII like that flown by Capt. Eddie Rickenbacker in 1917-18, the World War II famed B-29, P-38 and P-51, and the F-86A used in Korea. There also is an Atlas missile.

Of special interest may be the German, Japanese and Russian craft which tangled in combat with the Americans.

Inside are hundreds of exhibits, many of them mechanical, showing the development of aviation, and even a peek into future developments in space and rocketry.

Southwest toward Dayton off Ohio 444 is the Wright Brothers Memorial, a pink granite shaft erected on the Huffman Prairie where the Wrights made more than 100 flights in 1904.

West of Springfield, off Interstate 70 at the Ohio 369 exit, is the George Rogers Clark Park and Monument.

This is the site of the famed Revolutionary War battle (1780) when Clark's forces defeated a combined English and Indian force in the vital Battle of Piqua which gave the emerging United States a firmer grip on the Northwest Territory.

In addition to the monument, the park has fine picnic facilities and the rolling hill country is good for hiking.

John Bryan State Park, south of Springfield off Ohio 343 or 370, also offers excellent hiking, especially along the scenic gorge of the Little Miami River, and good camping and picnic facilities.

The Columbiana County Motor Club suggests this routing to the tour area: From East Liverpool, Route 30 to Interstate 71 to Route 40 west.

Food Favorites

Mrs. George Thorne of 9th Ave., LaCroft, suggests these recipes which her club members enjoyed recently when she entertained.

Peanut Butter Dips

1/2 cup peanut butter
1 6 oz. pkg. (1 cup) butter-scotch morsels
1 3 oz. can chow mein noodles

Combine peanut butter and morsels in top of double boiler and place over hot, not boiling water, until the butter-scotch melts. Stir until well blended. Add noodles and stir until well-coated. Drop by teaspoon onto a waxed paper lined cookie sheet. Top with candied cherry and chill till set.

Date Cream Cheese Roll Ups

1 cup butter
1/2 lb. cream cheese
2 cups sifted flour
1/4 tsp. salt
pitted dates
powdered sugar

Cream butter and cheese then blend in flour and salt. Chill for several hours or until firm enough to roll. Roll to 1/4 inch thickness on a board sprinkled with powdered sugar.

Cut in 1 x 3 inch strips with a pastry cutter. Put a date in the center of each strip and roll up. Put, folded side down, on a cookie sheet. Bake in a moderate oven 375 degrees for about 15 min. Sprinkle with powdered sugar. Nuts or cherries may be used for variation.

Stacey said $8,991 was paid the County Treasurer in fees collected in Common Pleas Court and the car title departments. There were 112 civil cases filed last month in Common Pleas Court, compared to 94 in June a year ago.

The State Treasurer received $9,256 from the collection of

24 Will Face Tax Charges

Affidavits were filed in Municipal Court Friday afternoon accusing 24 more individuals of violating the city income tax ordinance by failure to file returns.

Tax Commissioner D. G. Wilkinson filed the charges. Each defendant is accused of failure to file an estimate of 1967 earnings and failure to provide a final return on 1966 income. Both of the returns were due by April 30.

Judge Samuel M. Chertoff will set hearing dates for the defendants. Then summonses will be prepared in the court and served on each of the 24, advising of the charges and the hearing dates. Appearance bonds are not required by the court in city tax cases.

Eleven more defendants were served with papers about a week ago, directing them to appear in court next Tuesday. They also are charged with failure to file final 1966 returns and estimates of 1967 income.

About 400 individuals failed to comply with the deadline for the returns. Wilkinson said they will be cited into court in groups of 20 to 25 until the entire list has been covered.

Letters 25-1 Against Measure

'Kill It!' Abortion Bill Foes Write

By WILLIAM V. MERRIMAN
Review Staff Correspondent
COLUMBUS, Ohio — Statehouse coin phrases couldn't resist confusing things.

A bill to modify the state's abortion law has become "abortionment," a little play on legislative "apportionment" which substantially stretches Webster's imagination.

With these sound-alike terms missing few ears attuned to buzzing of the 107th Ohio General Assembly these days, one is being misinformed for the other with irritating regularity.

BUT JUDGING from correspondence reaching lawmakers here, there is no question which one has the attention of their constituents.

State Rep. Carlton E. Davidson, R-Lawrence, chairman of the House committee which last week reported the abortion bill for favorable floor action, said he's never seen such a flood of mail on a subject in his four terms in the legislature.

Another member of the committee, Rep. Michael P. Gamble, D-Stark, has counted 300 letters — all but three opposed to the proposal to liberalize the state's abortion law.

DAVIDSON said he's not been able to keep track of a count, pointing instead to three building envelopes filled with letters.

He estimates the letters are running 25-1 against the bill, which he voted for in committee — to give the House a chance to vote on it.

Some of the letters are brief: "Please vote against Bill 408."

A few are much more visceral: "Do you feel you want to meet your Maker with the blood on your hands of all those millions of squirming, whimpering, healthy babies who will be murdered if our abortion bill is passed?"

VIRTUALLY BURIED under the letters, postcards and telegrams is the bill's lone sponsor, State Rep. John A. Galbraith, R-Lucas.

Shrugged the undaunted freshman representative from Maumee: "These people simply are not informed about this bill."

Far from permitting indiscriminate abortion, Galbraith clarified, his measure only modifies the present section to allow abortions when the mother's health is in danger or in cases involving pregnancy resulting from rape or incest.

But he admitted he no longer is optimistic about his bill's reaching the House floor this session.

HIS ASSESSMENT seems realistic. The House Rules Committee reportedly voted overwhelmingly earlier this week against scheduling the bill for a vote.

Plainly, the possibility of alienating an obviously aroused segment of their constituency has little appeal to many legislators.

And Galbraith agrees his proposal has a low priority in the scheme of things during the session's last few weeks.

MEANWHILE, apportionment is getting far less public fanfare but is a major concern in the legislature.

Plans drawn by Senate Majority Leader Theodore M. Gray, R-Piqua, and Sens. Stanley Aronoff, R-Cincinnati, and William B. Nye, D-Akron, were sent to a subcommittee of the Senate Elections, Commerce and Labor Committee Thursday.

LEGISLATIVE leaders are anxious to come up with another apportionment plan to present to voters next November. Two previous proposals aimed at satisfying the U.S. Supreme Court's "one man, one vote" ruling have been rejected at the polls.

Gray's resolution would retain present districts until 1972 and then, based on the 1970 census, would establish a three-man board to reapportion the legislature, with the Senate increased from 33 to 39 members and the House from 99 to 117.

The measure offered by Aronoff and Nye, and cosponsored by five other Republicans and one Democrat, would retain the present sizes of the two houses, but would restrict districts more nearly to county boundaries to block gerrymandering.

ADDITIONALLY, the resolution calls for at least two of the five-member apportionment board — state treasurer, attorney general, secretary of state, auditor and governor — to be minority party representatives. If more than three were of one party, the minority party's state chairman would appoint one or two to insure a stronger minority voice.

Nye said he could envision the two proposals' being incorporated into one resolution, with the larger legislature the only section of the Gray plan its author would insist on.

Hope Wanes For Middle East Limit

Soviet Deliveries Chill Arms Plan

By JOHN M. HIGHTOWER
AP Special Correspondent

WASHINGTON (AP) — Rapid Soviet delivery of fighter planes, tanks and other modern arms to Arab nations during the past month has sharply discouraged Johnson administration hopes of negotiating an international agreement to limit arms levels in the Middle East.

U.S. officials say they have not given up all hope of discussing this problem with the Soviet government but that in the light of Soviet actions since the Arab-Israeli war ended last month the prospect does not look very promising.

THE ISSUE is understood to be one on which President Johnson received no encouraging indications from Soviet Premier Alexei N. Kosygin during their conferences at Glassboro, N.J. U.S. officials say Kosygin followed privately the same hard line on the Middle East crisis which he took publicly at the United Nations.

Nevertheless, administration officials found some reason for post-Glassboro hope because there are Arab-Israeli issues on which the United States and Soviet Union were shown to have somewhat similar positions.

Kosygin made clear to the President—as he said publicly—that the Soviet government recognizes the existence of the state of Israel. The Arab nations do not recognize Israel's right to exist.

U.S. officials also concluded from the Glassboro talks that the Soviet Union would have no problem working for an end to the state of war which has existed between Israel and its Arab neighbors since Israel was established in 1948.

Neither, it was said, would the Soviets object to finding some workable solution for the problem of more than a million Arab refugees from Israel.

It was also indicated at Glassboro that Moscow would go along with some kind of arrangement to assure international access to waterways in the area, apparently referring to both the Suez Canal and the Gulf of Aqaba.

THE TWO major U.S.-Soviet problems on the Middle East are Moscow's new supply of arms to the Arabs—with no sign as to where it will end—and Soviet insistence that Israeli forces withdraw from conquered Arab territory in advance of a general peace settlement.

Officials here reaffirmed the U.S. position that arrangements for withdrawal must be part of a peace settlement. The most serious problem foreseen by Washington authorities is the ultimate disposition of the part of Jerusalem captured from Jordan by Israel during the week-long conflict that began June 5.

Israeli leaders have said they intend to hold onto the Old City though they would recognize the interests of religious groups in its holy places.

During the brief war Israel knocked out the Egyptian air force, made up of Soviet planes, and destroyed huge quantities of Soviet-supplied Egyptian armor.

Figures here show that by air and sea lift and by some direct flights of combat aircraft, Moscow already has replaced about 150 MIG fighter planes for the Egyptians. More than 300 were destroyed in the war.

THE SOVIETS are reported to have replaced about 100 armored vehicles out of 500 destroyed.

The first replacements were made with airlifted deliveries and some supplies sent in by ships. Reports reaching Washington now indicate future deliveries will be primarily by ship.

An article in a Soviet weekly, "Life Abroad," gave the Soviet public its first official information Friday on the massive Soviet military aid being sent to Arab countries.

"Thanks to the Soviet Union the Arab countries are able in a brief period of time to replace their losses to a considerable degree."

U.S. officials said the initial proposal for a ceiling on arms supplies covering both the Arab states and Israel had been read by the Soviets originally as intended to freeze levels as they existed at the end of the war. That would have tipped the Arab-Israeli balance of power to Israel.

Officials said, however, that was not the U.S. intent, and the Soviets have been so informed. The aim, it was said, is to try to level off arms supplies at a point which will give Israel, Egypt and the other Arab countries a sense of defensive security.

Use Ballot Box Power, Teachers Are Advised

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn. (AP) — The new president of the National Education Association has told its members to use their power at the ballot box to ensure that education's needs are met.

"The entire teaching profession and education in America are in the midst of revolution," said Baulio Alonso at the NEA convention closing Friday night.

"Whether this revolution brings progress or disaster will depend more on teachers and their organization than on any other single factor."

Alonso, a Tampa, Fla., high school principal, said "Politics is not an unsavory business. We, who teach government, who teach democratic concepts, who help perpetuate our form of government should be the first to assume an active role in the political process. We must teach by example as well as by precept."

He said the day when legislators pass school legislation out of friendship or magnanimity for educators is long past, if it ever existed.

Alonso said that some teachers have limited opportunity for status and advancement because of religion or the color of their skins. But he pledged renewed efforts to advance NEA's progress in breaking down such barriers in the organization.

The NEA also installed its first Negro vice president, Elizabeth D. Koontz, a public school teacher from Salisbury, N.C. She is expected to succeed to the presidency next year.

Earlier in the week, when she was nominated to the vice presidency, Mrs. Koontz, 47, called it "significant." The significance, she explained, was not necessarily that she is the first Negro to be in line for the presidency. Rather, she said, it was the fact "that this association is too astute a body not to elect someone in whom they have confidence."

Delegates passed a resolution supporting racial integration of public schools and calling for steps to eliminate de facto segregation by such methods as busing pupils to other neighborhoods.

"Education must seek to eliminate minate prejudice and bigotry from the public mind," said the resolution.

Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey, a former teacher, told the convention that Americans should be willing to pay higher taxes and work harder to provide better education for underprivileged children.

He said that children from poverty-stricken homes face many handicaps and that they enter school "badly prepared by everything in their experience."

He recommended that school administrators and teachers devise means to keep schools open the year around to help poor children.

Humphrey pointed out that there are many former teachers at the top level of governments, including President Johnson, Humphrey, Senate Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield and House Democratic Leader Carl Albert.

The vice president seconded Alonso's remarks about teachers being active in politics.

"Teachers," he said, "must be in the vanguard of politics, and in fact you are in politics just as much as I am. We should support one another as we develop a partnership to make American education more sensitive and relevant to the needs of children."

High School Seniors Shatter Swim Marks

SANTA CLARA, Calif. (AP) — Three phenomenal high school seniors who shattered world records to open the Santa Clara International Invitational Swim Meet try for more laurels today.

They are Mark Spitz, who easily won the 400-meter freestyle Friday in 4:08.8; teammate Claudia Kolb of the Santa Clara swim team, 2:27.5 in the 200 medley relay, and Pam Kruse of Pompano Beach, Fla., 4:36.4 in the 400 freestyle.

Of every 100 Americans today, 62 now claim membership in some church — which is a substantial increase over a century ago when only about 20 of every 100 Americans were church members.

Zoning Board Sets Hearing

The new five-member Board of Zoning Appeals has scheduled its first public hearing for Tuesday, Aug. 8, at City Hall to rule on an application from American Legion Post 374 to reconstruct a porch on its home at 1220 Pennsylvania Ave.

Applicants are permitted to appeal to the board when a request for a zoning certificate has been refused by the zoning inspector, Charles D. Morrell.

The board said the Legion seeks a variance from the new zoning regulations to allow it to extend its porch beyond the setback line required by the ordinance.

The notice of the hearing said the hearing will be held on Article V, Section 507, concerning the Legion's property.

The section in question is entitled "Setback of buildings on principal streets and highways." It provides: "Along any state, federal or major highway or major street, except in a B-5 District (central business district) no building or accessory building shall be located within 75 feet from the existing center line of such highway or any proposed center line of the city's thoroughfare plan. Where there is no officially established public center line for a road open to the public, all buildings shall be set back at least 75 feet from the center line of the traveled roadway."

Council appointed the board in June to help administer the zoning regulations enacted in May. The members are J. Michael Kapp, chairman, Dan McKeever, the Rev. E. C. Traylor, Richard Carter and Clare Manypenny.

GOP Group Will Offer Alternative Viet Policy

WASHINGTON (AP) — Long-muted House voices are beginning to be raised in support of some alternative to the administration's Vietnam war policy.

Until recently open criticism was limited to a handful of the 435 members.

A few weeks ago, however, 60 Democrats, all staunch supporters of President Johnson, cautiously raised the possibility of a renewed attempt to bring the United Nations into an effort for a peaceful settlement.

Now, a group of liberal Republicans has come up with a new proposal they say will improve chances for a negotiated settlement with minimum military risk.

The eight Republicans joining in the proposal have scheduled a news conference Monday to make it public. None is identified with the GOP leadership, which has maintained a public show of support for Johnson's policy.

While they declined to disclose details of their plan before the news conference, the eight said it was designed "to reopen the domestic dialogue on United States policy in Vietnam, which has in recent months been curtailed through a growing belief that any form of dissent or debate in wartime is unworthy."

In a statement announcing the news conference they said the plan presented "a viable alternative to the current administration policy which, to many, seems to offer no reason for optimism."

They said they also hoped their plan would remind "the policy-maker and the critic alike that Vietnam is still a limited war in every sense of that term and that there is an immense difference between the diplomacy of limited war and the diplomacy of total war."

The eight GOP members making the statement were Reps. F. Bradford Morse, Mass.; John R. Dellenback, Ore.; Marvin L. Esch, Mich.; Frank J. Horton, N.Y.; Charles M. Mathias Jr., Md.; Charles A. Mosher, Ohio; Richard S.

Schweiker, Pa., and Robert T. Stafford, Vt.

Dellenback and Esch are freshmen who already have shown independence in voting against GOP leadership positions. The other six are identified with an informal House group that has tried since the 1964 election to give the Republican party a more liberal image.

This is the first time any House Republicans, as a group, have come up with an alternative Vietnam policy. The party's leaders, including Minority Leader Gerald R. Ford of Michigan, have sniped occasionally at specific actions of Johnson's, but always stopped short of suggesting any approach of their own.

With the fight for the GOP presidential nomination heating up it is possible the current move by the eight liberals could be the start of an attempt to give the party a Vietnam policy that would offer the voters an alternative to Johnson's in 1968.

Salem Beaten By Post 374

A big five-run second inning did the trick as Post 374 defeated Salem 6-1 Friday at the Colt Field here.

The runs came on three hits and three Salem errors.

The post nine is on a three-game winning streak.

Ron Whitehill, Salem's ace lefthander, was relieved by Palmer in the third as he was tagged for five more hits but only one run.

Jeff Hall continued his fine hurling for the winners, with his record now 5 and 2. He has averaged 10 strikeouts a game.

Mike McVay appeared in the lineup for the first time since a pre-season injury. He batted out a double and in the last inning sent the rightfielder to the fence for his long drive. He scored two runs.

Mike Goodballet had a double and triple and Brewer slapped his eighth triple of the season.

Post 374 will represent Columbia County in the 10th District Legion tourney at Rittman July 23. The locals drew a bye in the first round, which will be played July 22. Steubenville will meet Cadiz and Massillon will battle Doylestown, with Post 374 playing one of the winners.

The post will meet Lake Milton Sunday at 1 p.m. and Steubenville Monday at 6, both games at the Colt Field.

T. S. & T. finished strong to crush First National 11-4 and M. & A. Motors and Potters Bank battled to a 9-9 tie in Minor League action Friday.

T. S. & T. put the game on ice with four runs in the last of the fifth.

Black had two hits for the winners and Frank two for the losers.

Donny Samples fanned 10 in scoring the victory. Logan was the loser.

M. & A. and Potters Bank virtually traded runs every inning as they ended in their dead-lock.

Roger Wolfe and Chuck Kitt-ridge each bagged two hits for M. & A. Walker had three for the Potters and Jividen a home run.

Webster Draws Praise As Best Pro Prospect

ATLANTA, Ga. (AP)—George Webster of Michigan State has been singled out among the 60 college stars in Atlanta for tonight's Coaches All-America game as probably the best pro prospect, and the lean linebacker won the respect of his coaches with a single word.

"We were running down the roster asking where everybody could play besides their regular position in case we ran into an emergency," East Coach Tom Cahill said.

"When I asked Webster, he replied 'anywhere,' and the funny thing is, he meant it," Cahill said.

Cahill and his assistants, Vince Dooley of Georgia and Jerry Claiborne of Virginia Tech, said after working with Webster a week they believe he is the best athlete on the East squad, which is favored in the seventh annual All-America game.

The game will be nationally televised starting at 9:30 p.m. EDT.

"He'll be the next Dick Butkus or Tommy Nobis in the pros, or I'll be fooled," Cahill said, comparing Webster with the Chicago Bears' Butkus and the Atlanta Falcons' Nobis, two linebackers who had great rookie seasons.

"I'd be happy to be half as good as Butkus or Nobis," said Webster, who will play pro ball with the Houston Oilers.

Webster will anchor the East's defenses against the West tonight, with the defensive stand-out for the West expected to be guard Loyd Phillips, 241-pound Arkansas veteran.

Both will have plenty of opportunities to spark, with Phillips trying to stop the running of the East's Floyd Little of Syracuse and Nick Eddy of Notre Dame.

Webster will be counted on to stop the West's Mel Farr of UCLA, Harry Wilson of Nebraska and Ray McDonald of Idaho.

Passing leaders for the East will be Florida's Steve Spurrier and Purdue's Bob Griese, with the West aerial attack in the hands of Jon Brittenum of Arkansas and Bo Burris of Houston.

Burris agreed Friday to play for the New Orleans Saints in the National Football League. Griese is still dickering with the Miami Dolphins of the American Football League.

Clay Asks Permission To Box In Tokyo Ring

HOUSTON (AP) — Former heavyweight champion Cassius Clay, convicted of refusing the draft oath, asked Friday for court permission to fight in Tokyo to pay alimony and his lawyers, claiming the stiff sentence the judge ordered a long pause in the hearing to allow a probe of possible anti-American activities by the Black Muslim fighter.

In a motion filed Friday before U. S. Dist. Judge Joe Ingraham, who sentenced Clay June 20 to five years in prison and a fine of $10,000, Clay said a Tokyo promotion firm, Artlife Association, held him to a contract which must be honored before he can fight anywhere else.

The government opposed the motion in the hearing before Ingraham, claiming the stiff sentence the judge gave the boxer—the maximum permissible—"is an incentive for him to flee."

"Put guards on me—American troops," Clay said. "I'm not going to sneak away."

Clay now walks free under the $5,000 bond he posted upon his indictment for refusing the draft oath. The bond was extended with his conviction, which is on appeal, and that extension was, as Ingraham pointed out Friday, "a judicial grace."

In opposing Clay's motion, U. S. Atty. Morton L. Susman asked Ingraham to withdraw Clay's passport. The government lawyer argued that Clay had participated in a Los Angeles peace rally, autographing draft cards.

Ingraham said bond would be withdrawn and Clay sent directly to jail if it was learned that the fighter "is using his liberty under enlargement of bond for un-American activities."

The judge ordered the hearing recessed until July 21, and Susman will have until that time to wait for a possible Federal Bureau of Investigation report on Clay's activities while free on bond.

Clay said the Aug. 15 Tokyo fight, against an unnamed opponent would bring him $200,000.

Baseball Equipment Taken At Field Here

A Little League team manager has reported the theft of two bags of equipment from a playing field in the East End.

Norman Davis of Fisher Ave. told police Friday night the two bags containing 12 baseballs, a catcher's outfit, mask, padding and 10 bats were left at Dopler Field following a game yesterday.

Davis said when he returned to retrieve the equipment he found it gone.

U.S. And British Track And Field Stars Open Meet

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Several world records are a possibility this weekend as the United States' top track and field stars take on the British Commonwealth at Memorial Coliseum.

Today's opening program was highlighted by a 1,500-meter contest between world mile record-holder Jim Ryun and Kenya's sensational Kipchoge Keino.

Ryun ran 3:51.1 last month in Bakersfield, Calif., to lower his world mark two-tenths of a second, while Keino clocked off a 3:55.0 at an altitude of 6,000 feet.

It was the most expensive four-hit night of Pete Rose's career.

Rose smashed a triple, two doubles and a single, drove in three runs and scored twice as the Reds downed Pittsburgh 6-2 Friday night. It cost him fifty bucks.

That's because the only time the Pirates retired him, Rose broke Cincinnati Manager Dave Bristol's new rule that levies a $50 fine anytime a batter strands a runner at third base with less than two out.

Bristol installed the rule for the first time Friday, hoping to snap the Reds out of a lethargic slump that had seen them drop 14 of 19 games and fall from first to third place.

Rose, the new system's first victim wasn't complaining. "It's a good rule," he grinned, waving $25 and some trading stamps he had collected from a post-game radio interview and trying to get Bristol to settle for that.

Elsewhere in the National League Friday night, San Francisco nipped Los Angeles 2-1, Atlanta went 11 innings before edging New York 3-2, Houston battered Chicago 11-5 and St. Louis dropped Philadelphia 5-1.

In the American League, New York shut out Baltimore 3-0, Cleveland stopped Washington 6-3, Detroit nipped Boston 5-4 in 11 innings, Chicago squeezed past Minnesota 2-1 and California swept a doubleheader from Kansas City 7-2 and 8-2.

Rose's four hits raised his batting average to .326, sixth best in the National League.

Sammy Ellis went the route for the victory, scattering six Pirate hits and allowing two unearned runs. It was his first victory in nine starts since May 24.

Jim Hart smashed a two-run homer that broke a scoreless tie in the sixth inning and lifted the Giants over the Dodgers. Hart's 390-foot shot beat Bill Singer, who had shut out the Giants in his only other start against them.

Ray Sadecki, 3-0, and Frank Linzy limited the Dodgers to five hits. Jeff Torborg slammed a home run for Los Angeles.

Joe Torre drove in two runs with a single and homer and Mack Jones tagged the 11th inning homer that beat the Mets for the Braves.

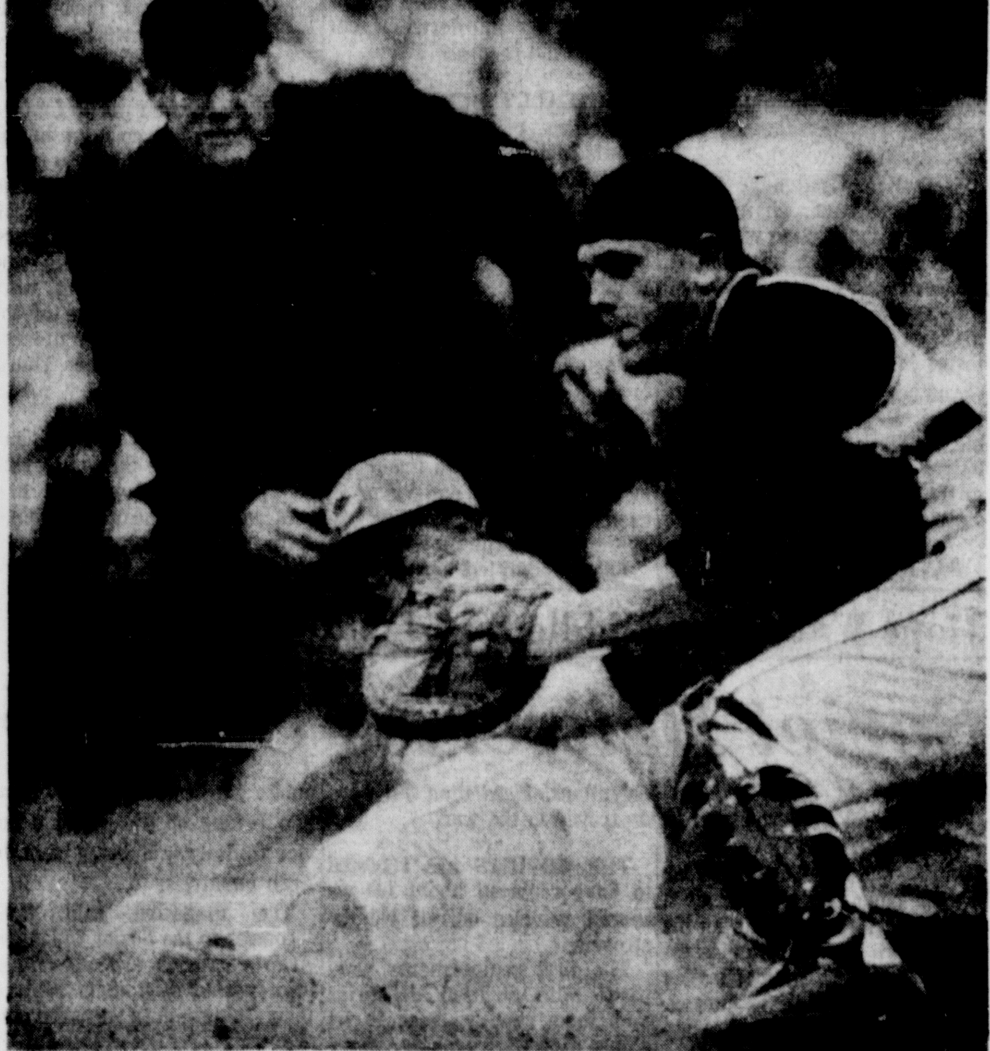

Torre singled Hank Aaron across with the tying run in the doubled across two more Houston runs in the fifth, lifting his league leading runs batted in total to 62.

Steve Carlton won his seventh game for St. Louis as the Cardinals snapped a 1-1 sixth inning tie against Philadelphia with four runs.

Julian Javier's two-run single was the big blow for the Cardinals, who beat ex- teammate Larry Jackson, 6-9.

Jackson was struck in the face by a wild throw in the four-run uprising and was to have X-rays of his nose taken today.

LEE MAY OF THE REDS was tagged out at the plate when he tried to score on a fly ball to rightfield in the second inning of Friday night's Cincinnati-Pittsburgh game at Forbes Field. Pirate Catcher Jerry May makes the tag after taking throw from Roberto Clemente. (UPI Telephoto)

White Sox Nip Twins In Ninth, 2-1; Yanks Blank Orioles; Angels Win 2

By DICK COUCH
Associated Press Sports Writer

It took Gary Peters one inning to shut off the Minnesota Twins — just as Eddie Stanky said he would.

It took Stanky a lot longer to turn on the Chicago White Sox — but when opportunity finally knocked they left nothing to chance.

The White Sox spotted Dean Chance a 1-0 first inning lead Friday night, then scored twice in the ninth on Zoilo Versalles two-out, bases-loaded error for a 2-1 victory that snapped Minnesota's eight-game winning streak and dropped the Twins into third place in the American League race.

Peters gave up doubles by Cesar Tovar and Tony Oliva in the first, then stymied the Twins until the ninth, when knuckleballer Hoyt Wilhelm came on to complete the two-hitter.

The loss left Minnesota one-half game behind the Detroit Tigers, who edged Boston 5-4 in 11 innings, and 3½ lengths behind the first place Sox.

In other games Friday night, the New York Yankees blanked Baltimore 3-0, Cleveland trimmed Washington 6-3 and California swept a doubleheader from Kansas City 7-2 and 8-2.

Atlanta nipped the New York Mets 3-2 in 11 innings, St. Louis topped Philadelphia 5-1, Cincinnati downed Pittsburgh 6-2, Houston bombed the Chicago Cubs 11-5 and San Francisco shaded Los Angeles 2-1 in National League play.

When Minnesota stormed into Chicago for the four-game weekend series Sox pilot Stanky refused to panic despite his club's 3-5 mark over the past week.

"Minnesota has a lot of momentum right now, but momentum can be shut off as quickly as it starts," he said. "We have a guy named Peters who can cool them off starting tonight."

Peters shackled the Twins' power after his shaky start, but it appeared there was no catching up with Chance, who scattered five hits until the ninth in a bid for his third shutout of the year against Chicago.

Then, with one out, Tom Mc-

Craw singled and Chance walked Jim King and J.C. Martin, filling the bases. Al Worthington came out of the bullpen and retired Don Buford on a foul pop, then got Ron Hansen to bounce towards short-stop.

Versalles, moving to his left, bobbled the ball, picked it up and fired to first—too late to get Hansen as both McCraw and pinch runner Charlie Bradford raced across the plate.

"I did all I could to get to the ball," said Versalles.

"I think it should have been a hit," agreed Stanky after viewing a television tape of the play. "Sometimes you get bombed and have a streak end, and other times you're one pitch away from a victory," philosophized Minnesota Manager Cal Ermer.

"We did nothing after the first inning."

"It wasn't a must game for us," insisted Stanky. "Even if we'd have lost 1-0, I liked the way my ball club looked. They fought from the sixth inning on. The Tigers snapped a 4-4 tie in the 11th when Jim Northrup stroked a one-out single and scored from first on Bill Freehan's double off the left field screen. Rookie Mike Marshall, who relieved during a three-run Boston rally that tied the score in the ninth, blanked the Red Sox over the final two innings to pick up his first major league victory.

New York broke a five-game losing string behind the four-hit pitching of Al Downing, who struck out 12 on the way to his ninth victory. Mickey Mantle drove in the only run Downing needed with a sixth inning double and Joe Pepitone smacked a two-run homer in the eighth.

Sam McDowell flipped a four-hitter, striking out 10, and Pedro Gonzalez' seventh inning single snapped a 1-1 deadlock before the Indians pulled away from Washington with a three-run burst in the eighth.

Rick Reichardt, wearing glasses for the first time in his career, blasted a pair of homers while Don Mincher and Paul Schaal also homered in California's twilight victory over the A's.

Roger Repoz, traded from Kansas City to the Angels recently, drilled two doubles and a single in the second game, driving in two runs, and Reichardt added a two-run single.

Newell Hits Hard To Win 16 To 7

Newell rolled over Hanover, 16-7, Friday in South Side Junior Division play.

The winners banged out 18 hits, with Greg Delong collecting four, including two home runs. Scott Carnahan also homered for the winners.

J. Caler had a round-trip for Hanover.

Mark Fabbro was the winning pitcher and Caler the loser.

Springfield Wins

ZANESVILLE, Ohio (AP) — Will McEhane pitched a one-hitter and struck out 11 as Springfield blanked Zanesville American Legion 2-0 Friday in the first round of the state Babe Ruth Baseball Tournament.

Vernon Dell Captures 7-5 Victory To Win Little League Second Half

Vernon Dell captured the second-half championship in the Little League Friday evening by rallying for three runs in the final two innings to edge Veterans Plate Glass, 7-5.

Vernon Dell will battle Travelers Hotel, first-half winners, for the championship, with the games due to start after the league's all-star contest.

Vernon Dell jumped off to a four-run lead in the top of the third, but Plate Glass came roaring back with four in its half of the inning to deadlock things.

Plate Glass moved ahead 5-4 by scoring again in the last of the fourth.

But the winners chalked up two more in the fifth and one in the sixth to sew up the game and moved into the championship round.

Cunningham and Henderson stroked two-baggers for the winners.

Joe Henderson was the winning pitcher and Davis the loser.

In another Little League battle Friday, Medics rolled over Burbick's, 15-8, in a free-scoring game at Chester City Park.

Staley was the winning pitcher and Loker the loser.

Dailey, Williams, Moore and Hocking each collected two hits for the winners.

Nats On Hand, Indians Find Batting Eyes

CLEVELAND (AP) — Just when Cleveland Indians fans were beginning to turn bitter about the team's inability to hit, the good old Washington Senators came to town.

The last-placers, whom the Indians have beaten eight times in nine games, went down 6-3 Friday night as the Indians collected 10 hits — the most they've accumulated in any of their last 10 games.

Leon Wagner and Duke Sims each contributed a double and single to the Indians' rejuvenated attack, and Lee Maye hit his sixth home run in the sixth inning. That was the first score in the game.

Pitcher Sam McDowell drove in a run with a single in a tie-breaking two-run rally in the seventh and put the senators down with four hits.

McDowell, now 5-7, struck out 10 and walked only three, and the Senators never had the lead.

A single by leadoff batter Tim Cullen was the only hit McDowell gave up in the first six innings, but doubles by Frank Howard and Paul Casanova spoiled his shutout in the seventh and tied the score at 1-1.

Frank Howard was on base through a wild throw by Pedro Gonzalez in the ninth when Casanova hit a change-up for his sixth homer to score the last two Washington runs.

Billie Jean King Favored To Retain Net Title Today

BULLETIN
WIMBLEDON, England (AP) — Billie Jean King of Long Beach, Calif., trounced England's veteran Ann Haydon Jones 6-3 6-4 today for her second straight women's singles crown in the Wimbledon tennis championships.

WIMBLEDON, England (AP) — Billie Jean King, 138 pounds of energy and bounce, gets her big chance today to win all three Wimbledon women's tennis titles—something that hasn't been done since the days of Doris Hart 16 years ago.

Even the partisan British crowds, starved for home-grown success for so long, make the 23-year-old California girl favorite to retain the singles crown she first donned last year—even though she will be playing Ann Jones, the local girl who has managed to reach the final after a record of losing five Wimbledon semifinals.

Mrs. Jones, 28, admits she is nearing the end of a long career that has brought her two French and one Italian titles. And she also admits she doesn't have any burning ambition to win Wimbledon.

But she topped Rosemary Casals of San Francisco—who plays a similar game to Billie Jean—in the semifinals and the center court will be crammed in tight with fans hoping to see her become the first British girl to win here since Angela Mortimer six years ago.

Billie Jean is making almost a one-girl effort to keep the American flag flying proudly and high. In the women's doubles she is teamed with Rosemary Casals. They face Nancy Richey, of San Angelo, Tex., and Maria Bueno of Brazil then, with Owen Davidson of Australia. Mrs. King plays Maria and Ken Fletcher of Australia in the mixed doubles finals.

If she manages to collect all three titles she will rank with Louise Brough and Doris Hart among the all-time greats of U.S. tennis. Doris Hart won all three titles in 1951.

Australian John Newcombe easily won the men's singles title Friday—the ninth time in 12 years an Australian has won—but the monopoly they've had in the men's doubles finals for the past three years was broken by the South African pair of Bob Hewitt and Frew McMillan. They beat third seeded Bill Bowrey and Owen Davidson and meet Roy Emerson and Ken Fletcher in the finals today.

Newcombe, a serve-and-volley 23-year-old in the best Australian tradition, won one of the easiest men's finals in years when he beat Wilhelm Bungert of West Germany 6-3, 6-1, 6-1 in 75 minutes.

New Season Set For Turkeys In Keystone State

HARRISBURG (AP) — A substantial increase in the turkey population has prompted the State Game Commission to schedule a special spring season next year for bearded turkeys.

Executive Director Glenn L. Bowers said Friday the season would be held from May 6-11. "The minimum fall population of 60,000 turkeys and overwintering flock of 30,000 ranks among the largest in the nation," Bowers said. "It is estimated that the spring population is one-third gobbler and two-thirds hens. Since polygamous gobblers acquire harems of several hens, there are two or three times as many gobblers as are needed."

Bowers warned hunters, however, that they would not be eligible for the special season if they killed a bird during the fall season.

24-8 Game Won By Shippingport

Jeff Trimble fanned 15 Friday and Shippingport batters had a field day in defeating Hookstown, 24-8, in the Southside Junior League.

The losing pitcher was Chuck Stroud.

Shoenberg and Waxler led Shippingport with 3 hits in 5 trips to the plate.

For Hookstown, Mark Seagraves was three for four and Tom Chambers had three triples.

Rich Hooper, a 20-year-old third baseman from Dallas, Tex., will join Peppier on the Sioux Falls team.

Putts Won't Fall, Sikes Back By 2

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind. (AP) — R. H. Sikes said, "I either missed the greens or just didn't hit them right," after missing eight putts of 18 feet or less.

Whatever the cause, the putts that wouldn't drop Friday left Sikes two strokes off the pace instead of well in front at the 36-hole point of the $100,000 Speedway Open Golf Tournament.

Sikes, with 67-72-139, and Gene Littler, with 71-68-139, were tied for second, behind Rod Funseth with 67-70-137.

Reply Slated By Garrison

NEW YORK (AP) — New Orleans Dist. Atty. Jim Garrison will appear on the National Broadcasting Co. television network next Saturday to reply to NBC's program which criticized his conduct of an investigation into the assassination of President John F. Kennedy.

Garrison's reply will run from 8 to 8:30 p.m. EDT. The program will be taped next week at the studios of WDSU-TV, the NBC affiliate in New Orleans.

The NBC telecast, entitled "The J.F.K. Conspiracy: The Case of Jim Garrison," ran an hour June 19.

In New Orleans Friday, Walter Sheridan, an investigator for NBC, was charged with public bribery of a prime witness in Garrison's presidential assassination conspiracy case.

Garrison contends more than one person was involved in Kennedy's death. The Warren Commission report said Lee Harvey Oswald acted alone.

Garrison charged Sheridan with bribing Perry Raymond Russo, 25, a Baton Rouge insurance man.

Russo is the main witness in Garrison's case charging Clay L. Shaw of New Orleans conspired in 1963 to kill President Kennedy.

Brake Defect Brings Recall Of Chryslers

DETROIT (AP) — Owners of 6,500 Chrysler Corp. cars are being asked to return the vehicles to dealers because of a possible defect in front wheel disc brakes.

The firm said Friday it has recalled 525 late production 1966 and 5,975 early model 1967 Plymouth Belvedere and Dodge Coronet and Charger cars with the disc brakes.

The reason, "A possibility that water may enter the disc brake proportioning valve." Dealers are to install new valves.

Chrysler also ordered back 7-407 Plymouth Barracuda and Dodge Dart 1967 two-door hardtops with rear center seat belts. The firm ordered its dealers to install a part that would protect the seat belt from possibly being cut by a shelf panel brace in a severe collision.

Also recalled were 159 Dodge Chargers made this year for inspection to determine whether their chrome front wheels were assembled without hub dust caps that prevent dirt and water from reaching the hubs.

Arm Is 'Fairly Good,' Indians' Kelley Says

CLEVELAND (AP) — For the first time in six weeks, pitcher Tom Kelley of the Cleveland Indians tried throwing a baseball Friday night, and he said his ailing arm felt "fairly good."

X-rays Friday showed a calcium deposit which began troubling the 23-year-old Irishman two years ago is still present, but not as large.

Kelley said he won't be able to tell whether or not he will need surgery until he tries throwing hard—"and that won't be for a week to 10 days."

Aspirin was not introduced into medicine until 1899, although it comes from a family of herbal remedies that were used back in the Stone Age.

Family Finds Honors Dumped Into Its Lap

KENNEBUNKPORT, Maine (AP) — A beautiful trash can and dump scavenging privileges for a year have been awarded to a Barre, Vt., family.

The Frederick H. Blakelys were honored Friday as the millionth group to visit the Kennebunkport dump.

The Association also sponsored a gigantic trash parade Friday in connection with its third annual National Dump Week. Imaginative floats, replete with new and pop junk, reflected the new slogan:

"Keep America beautiful. Throw away something pretty this week."

Although dogs have very acute hearing and can detect sounds that most human beings cannot, they do not see as well as man. A dog sees objects first by their movement, then by their brightness, and third by their shape.

Junior Editors Quiz on MYTHICAL PHOENIX

A MYTHICAL PHOENIX FLIES TO EGYPT

After 500 years, it burns itself to death

Suddenly, a new phoenix leaps up from the ashes!

QUESTION: What is the story of the phoenix bird?

ANSWER: The phoenix was not a real bird, but a legendary one invented by the ancient Egyptians. Greek authors, such as Herodotus, preserved the legend by writing it down. Every 500 years, according to Herodotus, a phoenix, which was a large eagle-like bird with red and gold feathers, flew from Arabia into Egypt. It lived there for 500 years, then built a nest of fragrant herbs. Fanning the nest with its wonderful wings, the phoenix set it afire and allowed itself to be burnt to death. But in the ashes was a small worm which survived. Suddenly, this turned into a glorious new phoenix, which then leaped into the air and flew off. Although impossible in fact, the legend was true to the idea that new things often arise from the ashes of the old.

Anthony DeCesaro of Pueblo, Colo., wins today's combined prize of Compton's Illustrated Science Dictionary plus $10 cash for this question. Mail yours on a postcard to Junior Editors in care of The Review.

Vivien Leigh, Screen Star, Taken At 53

LONDON (AP) — Vivien Leigh, star of stage and screen, was found dead in her London apartment today. She had been in ill health for some time.

Miss Leigh, former wife of Sir Laurence Olivier, had long suffered from tuberculosis. She had a relapse recently and was under medical care.

She was 53 years old.

Doctors had advised her to rest last week after a recurrence of tuberculosis. She was to have begun rehearsals next month for Edward Albee's play, "A Delicate Balance."

Miss Leigh rose to world acclaim for her role of Scarlett O'Hara opposite Clark Gable in the film "Gone With the Wind." She was picked for the part in the place of some of the biggest names in the movie industry who had been angling for it.

When casting the film director George Cukor said of the role and the star he was hunting: "The girl I select must be possessed of the devil and charged with electricity."

Cukor decided the relatively little-known English actress had what he wanted.
